

Spacemen Are Buried At Kremlin

MOSCOW (AP) — Three Russian cosmonauts, who died at the controls of their ship just before completing an epic space voyage, were laid to rest today in the Kremlin Wall, the nation's traditional burial place for fallen heroes.

The cosmonauts—Georgy T. Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Patsayev—were eulogized at funeral ceremonies in Red Square for their flight aboard the world's first space laboratory. Mstislav V. Keldysh, president of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, told the thousands of Russians assembled in Red Square for the cosmonauts' funeral that they had "opened up vast possibilities for all mankind."

"Their flight aboard the world's first long-term manned space station, Salute, marks the beginning of a new stage in the conquest of cosmic space," said Keldysh, speaking from Lenin's Tomb beside the Kremlin Wall.

A fellow cosmonaut pledged the Soviet Union will continue to conquer space. He is Vladimir A. Shatalov, who commanded Soyuz 10, which linked up briefly with Salute in April, but didn't board the station.

After the eulogies, an escort of military officers carried the urns to three niches in the Kremlin Wall and placed them inside. U.S. astronaut Thomas Stafford arrived in Moscow today to represent President Nixon at the funeral.

Seek Quiet Accord Over CBS Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trying to settle a subpoena dispute over "The Selling of the Pentagon" without a full House showdown, congressional peacemakers are seeking what one calls "a better way out of this mess than an unfortunate high noon on the floor."

In what could cause another court clash between government and the news media following the Pentagon-papers publication fight, the House Commerce Committee recommended Thursday that the Columbia Broadcasting System and its president, Frank Stanton, be held in contempt of Congress.

But the full committee split 25 to 13 in favor of the leadership-sponsored attempt to punish the network for refusing to supply raw material gathered during preparation of the news documentary.

"I'm awfully sorry this occurred; this confrontation should never have taken place," Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said as he announced the action taken at a closed committee session.

At this point, compromise-seekers say their admittedly delicate contacts with both sides, to encourage an easier settlement, are keyed to keeping the case from debate on the floor—with political risks of either a tight vote or even unprecedented rejection of a contempt recommendation.

Furthermore, saying they feel some leaders would prefer avoiding a direct confrontation between Congress and the broadcasting industry, accommodation-advocating congressmen consider Staggers has made his point and has substantial backing for possible new laws against deceptive practices.

Defending again his decision to refuse the subpoena demands, Stanton said in a statement issued in New York he hopes the House "will not confirm a citation of contempt which, though directed at CBS, is in effect taking dead aim against the 1st Amendment."

But Staggers repeated his argument that the 1st Amendment press freedom is not an issue in his attempts to obtain material edited from the program. The documentary criticized Pentagon public-relations spending.

Staggers contends the network must supply so-called out-takes for study in connection with charges that electronic manipulation rearranged questions and answers.

Generally, the House goes along with committee requests that contempt charges be pressed. If the House approves and the Justice Department prosecutes, conviction in court could bring maximum punishment of a year in prison and $1,000 fine.

Study Peace Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration's immediate concern over the newest Viet Cong peace plan appears not so much whether to accept or reject, but to determine the motive behind the proposal.

The official White House and State Department stance is the seven-point plan contains "positive as well as clearly unacceptable elements" and will be given serious study.

The new ingredient and apparently the positive one in official U.S. eyes is the proposal made Wednesday by chief Viet Cong Paris delegate Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh.

"If the U.S. government sets a terminal date for the withdrawal from South Vietnam in 1971 of the totality of U.S. forces and those of the other foreign countries in the U.S. camp, the parties will at the same time agree on the ... release of the totality of military men of all parties and of the civilians captured in the war, including American pilots captured in Vietnam so that they may all return rapidly to their homes."

Administration officials have agreed the United States should, at the outset, determine the meaning of the Viet Cong's gesture and whether it indicates a serious intention to negotiate.

Among alternatives U.S. officials say privately are being considered are these three:

—The time has come in North Vietnam's mind to negotiate total withdrawal of U.S. forces, including advisers, out of the South.

—Recent defeat of congressional efforts to legislate a withdrawal has led Hanoi to attempt to pump new blood into the antiwar drive in the United States.

—The peace plan may be an effort to generate bad feelings between the United States and the Saigon government at a time of the impending South Vietnamese presidential election.

Early 'No' to Fight Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four months after taking office President Lyndon B. Johnson turned down recommendations to move against North Vietnam as premature, the secret Pentagon papers disclose.

However, he called for building a strong military and political base in South Vietnam for possible later action against the North.

The documents, made public by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, say that Johnson on March 17, 1964, told Saigon Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge:

"Our planning for action against the North is on a contingency basis at present, and the immediate problem in this area is to develop the strongest possible military and political base for possible later action."

Both presidential adviser McGeorge Bundy and policy planner Walt W. Rostow were urging Johnson to combine military pressure against North Vietnam with pacification efforts in the South.

Bundy urged "selected and carefully graduated military force against North Vietnam."

During the same period Lodge's successor Maxwell Taylor, was expressing fears the South Vietnamese government might collapse or be replaced by neutralists.

By September 1964, after a series of coups had shaken the Saigon government, Taylor reported to the White House that the Saigon government "would probably be incapable of galvanizing the people ..."

But, added Taylor, "If we leave Vietnam with our tail between our legs the consequences of this defeat in the rest of Asia, Africa and Latin America would be disastrous."

Taylor returned to Saigon from consultations with President Johnson in November 1964 with this proposal:

"With respect to Laos, the U.S. government is prepared in conjunction with the Royal Lao government, to add U.S. airpower as needed to restrict the use of Laotian territory as a route of infiltration into South Vietnam. With respect to the sea, the U.S. government would favor an intensification of those covert maritime operations which have proved their usefulness in harassing the enemy."

The United States would regard the combination of these operations as constituting Phase I of a measured increase of military pressures directed toward warning the government of North Vietnam of the risks it is running."

The bombing of North Vietnam already was under way, and its tempo increased through 1965.

At least one plan was suggested to immobilize the North, the secret documents disclosed. John McNaughton, then an assistant secretary of defense, said in a memo North Vietnam's intricate lock and dam system was particularly sensitive.

Destroying it, flooding rice fields and raising the specter of national famine, if correctly handled, could "offer promise," McNaughton suggested.

The documents quoted his memo as saying: "It should be studied. Such destruction does not kill or drown people. By shallow-flooding the rice, it leads after time to widespread starvation of more than a million unless food is provided ..."

Younger Voters' Opinions Differ

Like divergent streams in the delta region of a great river, the opinions of 18 to 20-year-old persons in the Sedalia area are scattered from one extreme to the other on the matter of the 26th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which gives them the right to vote in all elections.

A poll by The Democrat-Capital brought forth the reactions of a small percentage of that section of the American voting public.

Most persons interviewed felt as does Susan Tobaben of Mora, who stated that "I think it's terrific ... everyone in my age bracket that I've talked to is in favor of it." A recent graduate of State Fair Community College, Susan, 19, said that she felt the majority of today's youth are "a lot more educated" than the same age bracket was years ago.

One 20-year-old, who refused to give her name, disagreed with that viewpoint, saying that the majority of persons in the 18 to 20-year-old group "simply aren't mature enough."

Linda Sparks, 19, 1206 East 13th, took the position that "I think it's fine ... If they're going to send guys 18-years-old to fight, they should be able to vote too."

The same viewpoint is held by Mrs. Mike Siron, 20, 1312 South Missouri, who said that "If the guys are going to fight and die, they should be able to vote."

Mrs. Siron's husband, also 20, quipped that "I don't believe I'll be ready to vote when I'm 30." He added that he believed the 18 to 20-year-old age bracket had one of the lowest voter turnout percentages in past elections in those states where they could already vote.

John Zink, 20, 1513 West 20th, said that "I think it came too late." He added that the constitutional change could have done some good as much as five years ago.

"It's about time" was Steve Smith's reaction. Smith, 20, of Smithton, said he thought 18 to 20-year-old persons are "a lot more mature" than what they were several years before.

While Karis Thomas, 20, Route 2, said that he was all for the measure, he urged the new voters to be careful of what they do at the polls. He said that his main concern was that politicians would attempt to play upon the "sensitiveness" of the 18 to 20-year-old voter.

Throughout the county the interest of young voters in being eligible to vote has been steady, but not dramatic, according to Mrs. Mary Jane Wilson, Pettis County Clerk.

Since the Congressional action, 238 young people have registered to vote at the County Clerk's office. The last census showed 1,055 persons 18 to 20-years-old in the county. All of those registering were from Sedalia, Mrs. Wilson said, adding that there is no county-wide registration. In Sedalia, excluding the younger voters, there are 12,266 persons registered to vote.

Mrs. Wilson had no figures as to the total number of registered voters in the county. She said that at present, young voters outside the city limits would be permitted to vote without registering by proving their age at the polls.

But Fewer Working

Jobless 'Decrease'

Sec. Hodgson ...
... explaining quirk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped sharply in June to 5.6 per cent of the labor force, even though more than a million more workers lost their jobs, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics attributed the sharp decline in the jobless rate to a statistical quirk. It said the drop "may be somewhat overstated" because more young workers than usual were still in school—and not seeking work—when the unemployment survey was taken the week of June 6 through June 12.

Nevertheless, the fall was moderately good news for the Nixon administration, which has set a goal of reducing unemployment to 4.5 per cent of the labor force by the middle of 1972.

The Labor Department said the number of unemployed persons climbed by 1.1 million over May, to 5.5 million last month. In May, the unemployment rate was 6.2 per cent.

The department noted the unemployment rate usually increases sharply between May and June, but added the rise was much less this year as a smaller than usual number of young people entered the labor force at the end of the school year.

By using a statistical method of adjusting unemployment for seasonal influences, the department figured the level of unemployment was down by 530,000.

It was an inconclusive report in terms of the economic expansion pursued by President Nixon in an effort to reduce joblessness. The statistical quirk in June possibly meant the unemployment rate would show a greater rise next month.

The six-tenths of one per cent decrease in unemployment was one of the sharpest in this decade. It returned the unemployment rate to the level of last October, when the nation was undergoing a strike in the automobile industry.

Most of the decline in unemployment occurred among teenagers and young adults, the department said, with the jobless rate for teen-agers dropping from 7.3 per cent in May to 15.8 per cent in June.

Smoke Warning: Give Companies Compliance Time

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. tobacco companies have been given six months to agree on a health warning to accompany the bubbling brooks, pretty girls and cattle roundups in their cigarette advertising.

The Federal Trade Commission wasted no time in its ruling Thursday. The 3-1 vote with one abstention came as a congressional prohibition on cigarette advertising expired.

The tobacco companies were given six months to sign a legally binding consent agreement requiring them to include in advertisements a "clearly and conspicuously displayed" note saying: "Warning! The Surgeon General has determined that cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health."

Pornography 'Ban' Grows

The efforts of several Sedalians to curb the open sale of what they consider pornographic literature moved a step ahead Thursday when a local drug store owner removed a publication from the racks.

The store owner said the magazine he withdrew was one of two publications mentioned in the nine signed petitions he received recently from a few Sedalia pastors and churches. About the other publication, the owner said, "I never did have it on my racks. Maybe they got it name from some other store."

The petitions, initiated by the Rev. Jene A. Cook, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, requested three Sedalia stores to withdraw what the signers considered offensive literature.

The drug store owner, however, was unhappy at "the way they (the petitioners) went about it," he said. "If they had approached me in person ahead of time about the material they're talking about, I'd have cooperated ... But this business of writing letters and making me look like I didn't cooperate or didn't want to cooperate is kind of making me look bad before the public," he said.

"I try to keep my racks clean," he continued. He mentioned that long before anyone appealed to him, he exercised some "self-censorship" by not displaying "at least 12 lines of magazines" out of the ones the distributor drops off at the store. He said he did this because "they're not fit to have on the racks ... they didn't look right to me ..."

The owner of another drug store who received the petitions said "you'll have to take it up with my attorney" when asked for his response. He would not disclose the attorney's name.

Asked what her response was to the letters, the owner of a downtown book store simply said "No comment." Asked if she received the letters, she replied, "That's my business." She added, "I'll say what I said before, I'll cooperate with them."

Last month a major Sedalia supermarket withdrew six magazines and a newspaper from its news stand in response to personal appeals from a group of church women. At the time the store manager told The Democrat-Capital that he took the publications off the racks because they were "just too far off" and some of the magazines were getting "more and more vulgar every day."

Mr. Cook pointed out that the petition from his church alone had at least 100 signatures of adults and teenagers. He said there are other publications being sold in Sedalia that he considers "nauseating but not hardcore pornography."

He said he is opposed to pornographic literature because he does "a lot of counseling with kids who have problems." By reading about abnormal sex acts and sex violence, "some kids think this type of stuff is the norm," he said.

Mr. Cook said he hoped more laymen and women and "not just preachers" would join in the campaign to curb the sale of what he termed offensive literature here.

Receives Lamb Award

William E. Fingland, 2314 South Ingram, was recently presented The Lamb Award for churchmanship and service to the Boy Scout movement at Trinity Lutheran Church. Looking on is Clinton Muller, 615 West Broadway, who made the presentation. Fingland received the award for his several years' service to his church as a Sunday school committee chairman, councilman and vice-president of the congregation. His scouting activities include serving as the 1967 chairman of Scout-O-Rama and as a Scoutmaster and a Cubmaster. The award is given annually to no more than 100 Lutheran men in the 10 million-member Lutheran Council in the U. S. A.

America Was Shaped By Religious Thought

By P. C. THOMAS
Democrat-Capital
Religion Writer

The Founding Fathers of this nation had their moorings in the Judeo-Christian beliefs and traditions. Despite occasional onslaughts on religious beliefs by a vocal minority, most Americans seem to be in agreement with the theistic philosophies that have molded this nation.

This weekend, leaders of churches and synagogues will make a special note of America's religious heritage. At the same time leaders in Washington, D. C., and the state capitals will not overlook the role of Divine Providence in temporal affairs as they participate in special Honor America celebrations to mark the 195th anniversary of political independence.

The following are some of the instances in which a dependence on divine guidance or an acknowledgement of God's sovereignty were or are expressed in this country:

— The Founding Fathers wrote into the preamble to the Declaration of Independence "...and to assume among the powers of the earth that separate and equal station to which the laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them..."

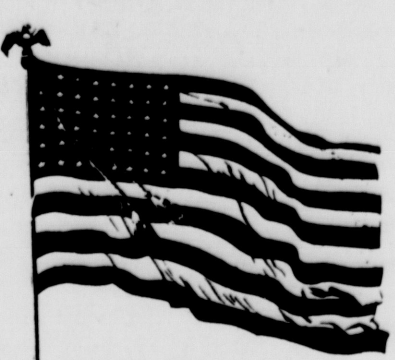

— The Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag include the words "one nation under God." The Pledge was originally authored by the Rev. Francis Bellamy, a Baptist minister in Little Falls, N. Y. It was first used in 1892 at the dedication of the World's Fair Grounds in Chicago. It underwent changes in 1923 and 1924 and it wasn't until 1945 that it was officially designated as the Pledge of Allegiance. The words, "under God" were added in 1954.

— The motto on American currency, "In God We Trust."

proclaims the basic religious convictions of most Americans.

— The inscription on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier Jewish synagogues follow the same custom, substituting the Star of David flag for the Christian flag.

Also, it is the practice in many churches to honor Boy Scouts who have rendered outstanding service to the church and civic organizations by presenting them with "God and Country" awards.

Prayers for the President and others in high offices are part of pastoral intercessions in churches.

A sample of sermon titles for this weekend in Sedalia's churches gives an indication of patriotic themes that will be heard this Sunday from pulpits across the nation. For instance, at the Community Church of Sedalia, Pastor Robert Kessler will bring a message on "The Preservation of Freedom." The in Arlington National Cemetery reminds tourists of an omniscient Supreme Being. It reads: "Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God."

The President takes the oath of office with his right hand on the Bible. No presidential inauguration seems to be complete without a word of prayer.

Instances of churches and synagogues giving expression to patriotism and civic consciousness are also part of the American way of life.

Churches throughout the land display two flags in their sanctuaries — the Christian flag and the Stars and Stripes. sermon topic of the Rev. Garner S. Odell, pastor of Broadway Presbyterian Church, will be "Democracy and Justice For All." At the First Church of Christ Scientist, the lesson-sermon will answer questions like "What are the rights of man?" and "What is the source of liberty?"

To those who value the religious heritage of America, Fourth of July means more than fireworks and partying. As the second President, John Adams, put it, "...this great anniversary festival ought to be commemorated as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty..."

Emma Lutheran Church To Have Sixth Pastor

(Democrat-Capital Service)

EMMA — The Rev. Wayne E. Schumpe of Lone Elm, near Bunceton, will be installed as pastor of Holy Cross Lutheran Church here at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. He will be the sixth pastor of the church which is 106 years old.

The Rev. William J. Wollenburg, circuit counsellor, will be the speaker and officiant at the installation service. The liturgist will be the Rev. Harold Belsheim, recruitment officer at St. Paul's College, Concordia. Mr. Schumpe attended the University of Missouri at Columbia for two years before earning a B. A. degree in education from Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Ill., and a Master's degree in religion from Concordia seminary, St. Louis. He served as principal of Lutheran schools in Pevely and Lone Elm.

The Schumpes have five children — Mark (9), Elizabeth (8), Timothy (6), Anna (3), and Magdalena, two months old. Mrs. Schumpe attended Concordia Teachers College, Seward, Neb., and taught primary grades in Pevely and Lone Elm.

Open Air Jesus Fest Saturday

Sedalia's second Jesus Festival will be held at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Liberty Park band stand, according to the Rev. Leroy Hayes, president of Beacon in the Night.

Hayes said that singers at the festival will include Keith Creighton, a folk singer from Kansas City who appeared at the first Jesus festival here last month, and others from Kansas City and Sedalia.

The Rev. Harold Aday, Kansas City, will address the festival. Hays said that the festival is open to the public.

Church News

"Democracy and Justice for All" will be the July Fourth sermon theme on which the Rev. Garner S. Odell will speak at Broadway Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.

The ordinance of the Lord's Supper will be observed Sunday morning at East Sedalia Baptist Church with the Rev. Medford E. Speaker, pastor officiating. His sermon will be centered around the Lord's Supper.

In the Sunday evening service Mr. Speaker will bring a message on "The Wise and Foolish Virgins." The lesson will be read from Matt. 25:1-13.

In the Sunday morning service at the First Baptist Church, the Rev. George T. Miller, pastor, will preach on the patriotic subject, "The Challenge Extended." The Sunday evening service will feature baptism and the Lord's Supper. A children's double quintet will present musical numbers.

"What are the rights of man?" "What is the source of liberty?" These and other questions will be answered in the lesson-sermon entitled "God," Sunday morning at First Church of Christ Scientist. The text will be II Cor. 3:17.

Young people of the congregation will conduct the Sunday morning worship service at First Christian Church. Those who attended youth camps and conferences will share in the leadership of the service.

The Rev. Ross E. Haupt, pastor of Immanuel Lutheran Church, Sweet Springs, will preach on the subject, "Trembling For The Ark," in the Sunday morning worship service. Holy Communion will be observed in the 8 a.m. service.

At Maplewood Church Sunday morning, Pastor H. James Kane will bring a message on the subject, "Vacation? Who's Minding The Store?" Sunday evening he will preach on the topic, "Adoption Agency."

"The Preservation of Freedom" will be the subject of Pastor Robert Kessler's Sunday morning sermon at the Community Church of Sedalia. Nehemiah chapter 4 will be the text.

"The Body That We Should Give To The Lord" will be the theme of Minister Jammie Paden's sermon Sunday morning at Stewart Avenue Church of Christ. Sunday evening he will speak on "A Strong Church."

New Mexicoans To Hold Services At Hughesville

HUGHESVILLE — An evangelist-soloist team from First Baptist Church, Albuquerque, N. M., will hold revival services at 8 p.m. Sunday through July 11 at the Hughesville Baptist Church.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Hubert Conway, a native Missourian who has pastored churches in Texas, Arizona, Missouri and New Mexico and has held more than 160 revival services in 15 states and six foreign countries, according to the Rev. Jerry McGee, pastor of the host church. Mr. Conway is listed in the 1970 issue of "Who's Who in the West."

The soloist will be the Rev. Bill Jack, who has led singing in more than 140 revival services and has produced several record albums. He is a native of Sulphur, Okla.

The team will conduct a Fourth of July service at First

Rev. Hubert Conway

Baptist Church, Marshall, before beginning the revival meetings here.

Pastor McGee said that the services are open to the public.

Mrs. Callis Re-elected

Mrs. Cynthia Callis, Route 2, was recently re-elected to a two-year term as representative of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. to serve on a 10-member fine arts committee of the Missouri Council of Churches.

Mrs. Cynthia Callis

The committee, according to Mrs. Callis, seeks to promote appreciation of art, music and drama among the youth of Missouri's churches by holding workshops, film shows and plays. The group also provides training to Sunday school teachers and youth leaders in the use of the fine arts in imparting religious instruction, she said.

"Art and church should go hand in hand. They have been closely related to each other for centuries," she commented.

Mrs. Callis said that one of the major goals of her committee for 1971 is to revive the interdenominational drama troupe that used to tour Missouri. Another project will be a rehabilitation program for the handicapped under the leadership of the noted sculptor, Bill Seberson of Chesterfield, Mo.

Women Rededicate Themselves

An entire audience of more than 2,000 women walked forward to the altar as an act of Christian rededication at the 14th biennial international convention of Lutheran Women's Missionary League held recently at Louisville, Ky., according to Mrs. Oscar A. Heimsoth, a delegate from Cole Camp.

The women made the commitment in response to a message by Dr. Theodore Raedeke, executive director of the inter-denominational evangelism program, "Key 73," in which he asked them to "establish a goal of being used by God in leading one or more persons to Christ during the coming year."

The delegates bought nearly 2,000 Bibles at the convention as part of the "Each One-Reach One" Bible distribution project. Delegates were asked to buy Bibles and give them away, then go home and encourage family members to do the same.

Convention speakers challenged women to "build people, not just budgets and programs," according to Mrs. Heimsoth.

The convention adopted a $350,000 mission project program, she said. The funds, gathered by voluntary contributions of the 201,000-member auxiliary of the Lutheran Church - Missouri Synod, will be used in six countries, she pointed out.

Doctor-Chaplain To Speak Here

The Rev. William N. Beachy, M.D., chaplain at St. Luke's Hospital, Kansas City, will speak in the 10 a.m. Sunday service at Calvary Episcopal Church, Broadway and Ohio.

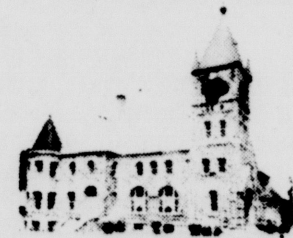

According to the Rev. William E. Lusk, pastor, Mr. Beachy has spent most of his ordained life as a chaplain. He is a member of the International Order of St. Luke The Physician, an ecumenical group dedicated to healing.

Mr. Beachy is also active in the healing ministry of the charismatic movement in the United States and abroad.

The public is invited to hear Mr. Beachy, Mr. Lusk said.

"The brain of an ant is one of the most marvelous atoms of matter in the world, perhaps more so than the brain of man," wrote the famous English naturalist Charles Darwin.

OBITUARIES

Miss Edith Mulvania

Miss Edith Leola Mulvania, 63, 2233 A First Street Ter., died at Bothwell Hospital at 11 p.m. Thursday. She had been a patient at the hospital since May 31.

Miss Mulvania had resided in Sedalia since last April with a niece, Miss Helen Mulvania. She lived most of her life in the Kansas City area.

She was born at Rock Port, Mo., Feb. 26, 1908, the daughter of the late Jesse and Eva Stewart Mulvania.

Until her health failed and she retired she was employed as a social worker with the Missouri Baptist Children's Home.

Surviving are four brothers, Laurel Mulvania, Rock Port, Mo.; Rev. Mitchell Mulvania, Fairfax, Mo.; Dr. M. A. Mulvania, Lima, Ohio; Walter Mulvania, Rock Port, Mo.; and an aunt, Mrs. Dollie Frink, Henderson, Iowa.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Baptist Church in Rock Port.

Burial will be in the Green Hill Cemetery at Rock Port, Mo.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home and will be taken to Kansas City Saturday afternoon to lie in state at the Stine-McClure Funeral Home from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Sgt. Roy L. Berkenbile

WICHITA — Sgt. Roy L. Berkenbile, 21, McConnell Air Force Base, died here Wednesday.

Born at Sedalia, May 31, 1950, he was the son of the late Virgil M. and Charlene E. Loucks Berkenbile Wilson, who survives.

He had been in the Air Force for the past three years.

Scientists Organize

Geo-chemical Society

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Scientists from 20 states and seven foreign countries have organized a new international society for scientists concerned with effects of geo-chemical environment on the health and diseases of humans, animals and plants.

The group formed the organization Thursday at the close of the fifth annual conference on trace substances in environmental health.

Dr. Delbert Hamphill, project director in environmental health at the University of Missouri, was named president of the new society. Other officers include Dr. Howard Hopps, curator and professor of pathology at the university.

Medical Training Passed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taking what were termed "the first major steps in attacking the nation's health crisis on a systematic basis," the House has passed innovative bills authorizing $3.5 billion for medical training.

With votes of 343 to 3 on a $2.8-billion comprehensive health-manpower measure and 323 to 0 on its companion $710-million nurse-education bill, the House sent the three-year plans Thursday to the Senate—which has a similar package, covering five years and $6.9 billion, on its calendar.

The House-endorsed program, said Chairman Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., of the public health subcommittee, aims at "shortening the curriculum for physicians, gaining at least five more medical schools, graduating more family doctors, helping financially shaky medical schools, and having doctors go to critical shortage areas."

After inserting provisions prohibiting discrimination based on sex, the House accepted the measures basically as developed by the subcommittee—containing key provisions that go far beyond what the Nixon administration had sought.

Rogers said the bills would seek to satisfy the "needs in the manpower field by 1978," with a major new idea being a so-called capitation grant to medical schools based on the number of students in various classes.

In addition, family-doctor training provisions are included, which, supporters said, wipe out major objections President Nixon raised last year when he vetoed a family-medicine measure.

Once approved, the authorization bills would be subject to later legislative funding through appropriations measures.

The manpower bill's formula for capitation grants would provide up to $12,500 per graduate—more than double the Nixon proposal. There would be $750 million for grants to build classrooms, laboratories and libraries for health schools.

Commuters In Sedalia Decrease

At the regular monthly meeting of the Sedalia Industrial Development Board, Thursday, Bill Hall, industrial development director, estimated that the number of commuters driving to Kansas City daily from the Sedalia area has declined by one third.

Hall said the decline in the appeal in commuting to Kansas City industries has come from improved employment opportunities in the Sedalia area and recent layoffs in the Kansas City metropolitan area.

Based on a study, which Hall's office participated in jointly with a Warrensburg group in 1965, there were about 600 workers commuting to Kansas City daily. That number, according to Hall, has dropped by about 200.

Hall's comments came in connection with release of the Industrial Development office's new plant location study. Hall said the study is prepared twice each year for possible prospects considering location in Sedalia. Hall said 50 copies are prepared of each edition of the study.

Hall said that eight copies of the study had been sent out to good industrial prospects recently.

Among the items outlined by the plant location study is the location of Sedalia, its population, municipal services, taxes, educational facilities, commercial services, number and types of churches and recreational facilities.

Hall described the rest of the one-hour meeting as routine.

Clothes Closet Report Is Made

SWEET SPRINGS — The report for the second quarter of 1971 for the Clothes Closet project here was presented recently, showing that more than 100 hours of volunteer work was expended during the period.

More than 1,000 items of clothing were placed in the Sweet Springs area, including some which had to be purchased.

Cash donations received during the quarter totaled $30. More than $10 of items were sold. Operating expenses amounted to $58.86.

The annual rummage sale will be held July 17 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Clothes Closet here.

Police Report

John Hill, 423 North Osage, reported to police at 7:35 a.m. Friday that someone stole a 12-foot wooden ladder from his home, sometime between 10 p.m. Thursday and 6 a.m. Friday.

Sedalia police received three stolen bicycle reports Thursday morning.

At 8:35 a.m., Mrs. Pete Trigg, 711 East 24th, reported that two bicycles were taken from her home sometime earlier that morning.

Randy Patrick, 707 East 24th, reported that someone took his bicycle from his home sometime Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Trigg told police later Thursday evening that she found one of the bicycles near Meadow Lake.

Helen Crabb, 1301 South Lamine, reported to police at 4:21 p.m. Thursday that someone took her billfold and its contents, including $20, and a United States flag from her residence sometime Wednesday evening or Thursday.

Mrs. Crabb told police that three U.S. flags have been taken from her residence in recent weeks.

Fires In The City

Sedalia firemen answered a call to 500 West Third at 10:33 p.m. Thursday to extinguish a fire in a 1963 Chevrolet belonging to Floyd Knox. The fire started when the car's engine backfired through the carburetor. Damage was listed as slight.

Sedalia firemen were called to the Mary Turner residence, 1509 South Monticello, at 12:52 p.m. Thursday. A trash fire set electrical wiring on fire. The Missouri Public Service Co. was notified. No damage was reported.

Draft Offices Still Operate; No Inductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr has ordered all state boards to continue all draft processing except actual inductions until Congress agrees on a new draft law.

Tarr issued the orders Thursday as a House-Senate conference committee broke off until July 7 its efforts to work out a compromise two-year draft extension.

The committee is snagged on a Senate amendment calling for a U.S. pullout from Vietnam in nine months if American prisoners of war are released.

Tarr had ordered the states to halt nearly all activity when the draft law expired Wednesday night, but his latest directive continues preinduction physicals, classification appeals and other procedures.

Tarr said also the 1972 draft lottery, which had been planned in about two weeks, will be scheduled after Congress agrees on the bill.

Report Northern Bombing

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command disclosed today that American fighter-bombers attacked gun positions in North Vietnam's half of the demilitarized zone two days ago.

A spokesman said one 37mm antiaircraft gun was destroyed, seven North Vietnamese troops were killed and 10 secondary explosions were triggered in the raids Wednesday morning by a dozen Air Force, Navy and Army strike and support aircraft.

"There was no damage to U.S. aircraft," the spokesman said. "As the command has often stated, protective reaction is the inherent right of self-defense."

The spokesman, Capt. James D'Entremont, said U.S. forward air controllers on a mission in South Vietnam's half of the DMZ received enemy antiaircraft fire from the northern half.

"As a defensive measure," D'Entremont said, "aircraft were diverted to engage the hostile guns."

D'Entremont said American observation aircraft had been flying a visual reconnaissance mission at the edge of the southern half of the DMZ, about 15 miles west-northwest of Dong Ha, where a North Vietnamese buildup and heavy fighting has been reported.

"The observation aircraft located enemy troops violating the southern half of the DMZ," he said. He added that the decision was made to engage the enemy with air strikes rather than artillery, but gave no reason for the decision.

The U.S. strikes into the northern half of the DMZ were the first reported by the U.S. Command since March 30 when four fighter-bombers attacked long-range 152mm artillery guns that had been firing on allied bases along the northern frontier.

The U.S. Command said that allied reconnaissance has detected more than 15,000 "sightings" of enemy activity inside the DMZ since the halt in the bombing of North Vietnam on Nov. 1, 1968. These include movement of troops and war materials across the DMZ into South Vietnam and the emplacement of artillery and antiaircraft guns.

The command acknowledged that American forces have engaged North Vietnamese targets inside the DMZ more than 7,000 times since the bombing halt, but said that only about 40 of these strikes have been in North Vietnam's half of six-mile wide zone.

Accident Statistics Reported

The Sedalia Police Department investigated 65 accidents last month with 19 injuries and no fatalities reported, according to C. R. Harrell, records clerk.

For the same period last year, eight more accidents were recorded, with one less injury and no fatalities reported.

Sedalia police have investigated 436 accidents this year, with one fatality and 117 injuries recorded. There were 478 accidents and three deaths during the same period last year, showing an increase.

The injuries reported for the first six months of this year, however, have risen from 99 last year to 117 this year.

Sedalia Business Hit By Thieves For Second Time

Ten new Homelite chain saws, valued at $1,520, were stolen late Thursday night or early Friday morning from Yeager's Cycle Sales and Service, 123 East 16th, according to James Yeager, 2308 South Kentucky, shop operator.

Yeager reported to police that the shop was broken into sometime between 10:30 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. Friday. He said that entrance to the building was gained by breaking out a window in the rear of the business.

According to Yeager, the theft was apparently the work of "someone who knew what they wanted" as several used chain saws, motorcycles and various parts were untouched.

The shop was also burglarized last Saturday, at which time thieves took three mini-motorbikes, several crash helmets and some change, police reported.

Elect Cunningham To CMSC Board

WARRENSBURG — J. M. Cunningham, 1605 West 16th, Sedalia, was elected to the Board of Regents of Central Missouri State College at its biennial reorganization meeting recently.

Elected president of the board was Joe Herndon, superintendent of schools at Raytown, who had been a member of the Board of Regents since 1961 and had served as vice-president since 1965.

Verdict Of Not Guilty For Curry

(Democrat-Capital Service)

WARSAW — After deliberating 45 minutes Thursday afternoon, an all-male jury here turned in a verdict of not guilty in the rape case against Gary Curry, 20, 617 Wilkerson, Sedalia.

Following closing arguments by both Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Adam Fischer and defense attorney James Herd of Kansas City, which lasted from 10 a.m. until noon, the jury returned at 12:45 with the verdict.

Ten witnesses were called to testify Wednesday, the first day of the trial, with the last testimony ending about 11 p.m.

The trial was held in Benton County on a change of venue from Pettis County.

Curry is still charged with two counts of first degree robbery. He allegedly broke into the Robert Bohm residence, Route 3, last April and took a shotgun and rifle and then stole another shotgun and rifle from the Cebe Brownfield farm, about a mile north of the Bohm residence.

Curry has been held in the Benton County jail since last year.

Initiate Nebraska Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The University of Nebraska will open a program in September which will allow juniors to spend a year as domestic volunteers in the New Action agency and still earn full credit.

Action is the Nixon administration's volunteer superagency which came into being Thursday. The agency is a merger of VISTA and five other smaller volunteer agencies.

The organization plan also calls for the inclusion of the Peace Corps and the Teacher Corps in Action upon Congressional approval. Both agencies are in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

President Nixon Thursday formally named Joseph Blatchford, former head of the Peace Corps, to head Action.

The Nebraska program will include 200 students and about 10 faculty overseers. Blatchford said he hoped to expand the program to 10 other colleges and universities in the next year.

At a White House ceremony, NU Chancellor D.B. Varner called the program a "bold concept" which shows there's "another way to learn than putting 30 students in a room with a blackboard and a teacher."

Nixon said he thought it was significant that Action should be formed the day after 18-year-olds gained the right to vote in all elections. He said the new agency is primarily directed at young people.

Mercer Man Killed

MERCER, Mo. (AP) — Robert Jones, 67, of Mercer, was killed by a car as he walked along a county road east of Mercer Thursday. The highway patrol said the car was driven by Allie Holmes, 70, of Mercer.

Mercer is just below the Iowa line in north-central Missouri.

Three Men Rescued From Sub

GOSPORT, England (AP) — Three submariners trapped in the torpedo room of their sunken ship early today talked on the telephone, played cards and listened to records while the Royal Navy worked to free them.

Rescue teams early this morning righted the stricken 1,120-ton Artemis in the thick mud of England's south coast, and the three men shot to the surface through an escape hatch after a 10-hour ordeal.

Leading Mechanical Engineer Robert Croxon, 22, Chief Petty Officer David Guest, 36, and Mechanical Engineer Donald Beckett, 24, all were reported well after a checkup.

The Artemis, a 25-year-old conventionally powered sub, was sunk in 30 feet of water alongside a dock, and salvage men said all but her forward compartment was believed flooded. But they had several lines around her and anticipated little difficulty in raising her.

The Artemis was moored alongside the submarine Ocelot at the sub base near the entrance to Portsmouth harbor Thursday night when, with no previous indication of trouble, the Artemis suddenly dropped below the surface. Twelve men leaped off as their ship plummeted to the bottom.

"The first thing I knew," said 23-year-old Alan Turvey, "I heard a rushing noise and looked over the side to see the water frothing up. I didn't have time to think—I just made a leap for the jetty."

Croxon, Guest and Beckett couldn't get out as the water flooded in. They sealed themselves in the forward torpedo room, illuminated by dim emergency lighting.

"Sit tight and keep your spirits up—you'll soon be out," they were told over an underwater telephone link from the neighboring Ocelot.

Divers snaked two lines around the Artemis, which was lying stern-down in the mud with a 45-degree list. The rescue crews hauled the ship to an even keel, and hope to haul her to the surface, but the Ocelot was jammed in the way, and the mud was sucking the Artemis down deeper. The Navy decided the men had to get wet.

Dressed in coveralls with thick white sweaters, they shot five feet above the surface in a rush of released air and bubbles.

An official inquiry began today, but a Navy spokesman said sabotage was not suspected. In 1954, there was a sabotage attempt on board the Artemis when a stoker was accused of putting signal grenades in the engine.

Ham Radio Operations Explained

The Rev. Gregory Hibbard, a Kiwanian, presented a program on the world of the ham radio operator at the Thursday noon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Bothwell Hotel.

Mr. Hibbard, himself a ham operator with an "advanced" class license, demonstrated some of his equipment and showed a color film, "Ham's Wide World," narrated by Arthur Godfrey.

The value of amateur radio, both as a hobby and social service, was explained by the film. Mr. Hibbard also played a tape of a radio conversation he had that morning with a ham operator in Brisbane, Australia.

The speaker was introduced by Herb Taylor in the absence of President Monty McQuitty and president-elect Jim Woods, who are attending the 56th annual convention of Kiwanis International in San Francisco, Calif., with their wives.

Birthday greetings were extended to Sylvan Woolery.

Singing was led by Wendell Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Woolery.

Polly's Pointers

A Way to Use All the Butter

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — To use every bit of the soft margarine in a tub after all that can be has been removed, I place the tub in a pan of hot water and let the last bit melt, then add dry bread crumbs to absorb the melted margarine. I store this in the refrigerator and it is ready for topping a casserole or for using in any recipe calling for buttered crumbs. —THRIFTY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My fairly new steam and dry iron has a crusty build-up on the inside that partially plugs the steam holes, causing an inconsistent distribution of steam and frequent spurts of water. I use nothing but distilled water in this iron. I hope some reader can tell me how to remove the crust and how to prevent it in the future. —K. R.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those TV commercials that do a selling job on a product and then run a list of stores where it can be bought but so fast that one does not have time to read them. There is never time to write down a name and address before the picture is gone. Thanks for listening. —J. E. W.

DEAR POLLY — Like Lynda I also pulled the posts out of my earrings for pierced ears. I used airplane glue to mend them as it dries clear and hard. Be sure the glue is thoroughly dry before wearing such a mended earring. —JERRI

DEAR POLLY — Lynda should have a jeweler put the post back on her earring. I have had this done several times and the charge is very small. This would be safest if she swims a lot, as her letter says. —JOAN

DEAR POLLY — I would like to share my excellent way of cleaning the metal runner in the shower door so it slides easily. I wet a cloth well with white vinegar and sprinkle soda on it until it fizzes and then flush off with lots of hot water. Use a cotton-tipped stick to get to the places under the doors. Dry and have a sparkling clean runner. I have tried everything and this is the best ever even though I came upon it quite by accident. —BEVERLY his flight home. Mo expressed disappointment in leaving the DeMott family, especially his American "brother," John DeMott, and the many friends he made while living here. He plans to continue his education to become a doctor. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

New Safety Record Pleases Officials

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly 165,000 abortions were performed in New York City during the first year under the state's liberalized law, and health officials expressed pleasure over the safety record established.

Gordon Chase, health services administrator, said Tuesday the death rate of 5.3 per 100,000 abortions in New York compared favorably with 17 per 100,000 in Great Britain during the first year of large-scale legal abortions, and 40 per 100,000 in the Scandinavian countries.

Officials said 64 per cent of the women receiving abortions in New York City during the first year were from out of state and included someone from each of the other 49 states.

Court Ruling on Ali Ends Shameful Episode

WORLD ALMANAC
FACTS

By Carl T. Rowan

WASHINGTON — By voting unanimously to overturn the conviction of Muhammad Ali for refusing military induction, the Supreme Court has produced an honorable end to a drama that had many shameful aspects.

This society, if dedicated to justice, would do well to ponder those aspects.

Rowan

First, the Ali case highlighted an old practice of hustling off the poor and the black as "cannon fodder" in our military conflicts. Draft boards that for too long were made up of affluent whites have shown calloused skill at shipping the voiceless and defenseless off to military camps.

Ali, for example, was exempted from the draft in 1964 because he failed the mental test. Many thousands of other blacks and poor whites, lacking educations, could not pass the tests.

Considering their percentage of the population (10) and the high level of rejections because of educational deprivations, blacks should not have comprised more than 7 per cent of our troops in Southeast Asia. How does it happen that 12.5 per cent of those killed in combat were black?

Overzealous, discriminating draft boards is one answer. We have made progress the last few years in democratizing draft boards, but not enough.

Then, in 1966, when it was obvious that hundreds of thousands of GIs would be sent to Vietnam, the Pentagon lowered mental standards. The political screaming presumably not be so loud if uneducated blacks and poor whites were doing most of the dying.

When they lowered the standards, Ali's Louisville draft board automatically classified him 1-A. Ali protested to the Selective Service appeal board that he should have been declared conscientious objector because of his Muslim faith. The board's examiner agreed with Ali, but the appeal board rejected the examiner's recommendation without giving reason.

It was manifestly clear that racial passion and politics were factors in this decision. The Black Muslims were unpopular, with the FBI trying to picture them as the nation's greatest menace, so draft officials were not about to view them in the same light as Baptists, Methodists, or Quakers.

Ali himself was almost as unpopular in some circles, calling the Vietnam conflict "a white man's war" and asserting that he had "no quarrel with them Viet Cong."

This made it easy for the Justice Department to claim that Ali's objections were "racial and political," and not religious. They even had the gall to say he was not conscientious even though the young boxer risked a prison term when he could have accepted induction and had a lark of a tour, a la tennis star Stan Smith who is carrying the good old U. S. Army banner at Wimbledon this week.

The government's hostility toward the Muslims came out in federal district court in Houston during a hearing on Clay's appeal. An FBI agent admitted that for four solid years he had listened eight hours a day, five days a week, to the conversations of Elijah Muhammad, leader of Ali's Muslim group. The FBI had Elijah Muhammad's phone tapped and a microphone planted in his home.

It was this same hearing that produced revelations that the FBI had the late Dr. Martin Luther King under electronic surveillance. When this story broke, it jarred loose stories of the FBI trying to destroy King's reputation by whispering salacious stories about him to congressmen and editors. Now the whole nation agonizes over the electronic surveillance menace.

The Ali case focused a spotlight on a segment of official America which was determined to discredit or destroy any black person or group that strayed far from convention and conformity.

In this atmosphere it was easy for the New York State Athletic Commission to take Ali's title, and for this and other groups to deny him a right to earn a living in boxing — all without the slightest semblance of due process.

It is great that we have justices wise enough and gutsy enough to stand above all these passions and emotions and free Ali. It would be even better if we had leaders in Congress and the executive branch who would take steps to ensure that thousands of other young men with less resources than Ali are not similarly abused and without access to relief.

A remarkable postscript to it all is that Ali is not posturing or vengeful in victory. He says he will not sue the athletic commission because "they did what they thought was their duty."

This "forget and forgive" attitude tells you that Ali may be short on formal education and unable to pass that military mental test. But he's no dummy. He turned out to be a lot smarter than all those people who were playing him for a chump.

Lesson For Nation In 'Golden State'

Years before the 1970 census officially confirmed the fact, California claimed to have dethroned New York as the most populous state in the Union.

Since then, neither earthquakes, smog, perennial brushfires and mud slides nor hard times in the aerospace industry have significantly slowed the continuing westward movement of Americans to the Golden State.

Now, however, the gold is beginning to tarnish — not for newcomers but for those already there.

"We've come to the realization that growth for growth's sake is no longer desirable," says Victor Calvo, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Santa Clara County, one of the fastest-growing areas in the nation.

In recent months, local citizens groups have rebelled against new commercial and industrial developments, including what had been billed as "the largest shopping center in northern California" and a new jetport. An anti-population-growth group placed newspaper advertisements urging prospective immigrants to stay away.

Santa Clara County is not unique. A survey conducted by Prof. Judith Blake Davis, chairman of the department of demography at the Berkeley campus of the University of California, found that millions of Californians are now willing to support policies that would slow or end migration into the state. These range from reducing welfare to stopping publicity boosting California all the way to outright restrictions.

Some 80 per cent of white California citizens believe that population growth is a paramount factor in environmental problems. Nonwhites are only slightly less concerned; 77 per cent of them put environmental problems in first and second place.

The survey suggests that population control policy may be less a taboo issue than politicians have traditionally feared, says Dr. Davis.

And that has far-reaching implications not only for California but for all of the United States.

WASHINGTON — Democratic National Chairman Larry O'Brien is trying to bring the Democratic presidential contenders together in the backrooms this month to set campaign spending limits.

He's afraid they'll squander their money in the primaries and won't be able to raise enough for the final election drive. He'll also ask the contenders to pledge their financial resources to the candidate who wins the presidential nomination.

O'Brien has run into unexpected opposition, however, from Indiana's Sen. Birch Bayh, who has dazzled Democrats with his high-powered campaign.

He has courted key Democrats with champagne breakfasts, chauffeur-driven Rolls-Royces, plane tickets to Washington and other costly services. At a reception in Madison, Wis., Bayh provided two free bars and a rock band. And in Chicago, he threw a black-tie dinner featuring Laugh-In's Lili Tomlin and George Shearing.

Bayh's campaign headquarters is carpeted and furnished in executive-suite splendor. He has a professional campaign staff, who have adopted such expensive innovations as a special radio network, which rushes out Bayh's statements on two leased long-distance lines to the radio networks and hundreds of independent stations for their news shows.

In response to O'Brien's appeal, Bayh has argued that a spending limit would hurt candidates like himself who need public exposure to catch up with front-runner Sen. Ed Muskie.

The source of Bayh's campaign cash has been one of Washington's great mysteries, and the senator and his aides have kept mum. Nevertheless, we have been able to lift some of the secrecy.

We have learned, for example, that the Bayh organization approached the American Security and Trust Co. in Washington earlier this year to line up a

Merry-Go-Round

Birch Bayh Spends Big in 'Campaign'

$250,000 loan to meet the senator's early expenses.

The bank at first gave some encouragement. But when Bayh's aides set down with bank officials in Washington last February, the deal fell through.

The bank's general counsel decided the loan would violate the Corrupt Practices Act's strictures against contributions for political campaigns by corporations or national banks.

While the Bayh fund-raisers were apparently willing to accept such a dubious favor from the bank, they insist that the campaign has not accepted "one nickel that has one string on it."

Despite Bayh's close ties to organized labor, they further insist that "not one nickel" of the senator's campaign money is coming from the unions.

Bayh has been taking in between $25,000 and $30,000 a month to finance his presidential ambitions, according to one insider, who said most of the money had been raised by Milton Gilbert. The New York industrialist played down his own role but acknowledged that "a few hundred thousand dollars have been raised to date."

He said he had contributed heavily in 1968 to Richard Nixon's campaign through their mutual friend, Robert Abplanalp.

One insider asserts Bayh, who lives in high style in a fashionable, decorator-perfect home with frequent catered parties, doesn't dip into his own pocket for politics. He pays income taxes on about $100,000 a year, much of it coming from lecturing but some from a 340-acre farm at Shirkeyville, Ind., says this source.

But Bayh's campaign manager, Jim Nicholson, says the senator helps pay his own campaign expenses. He is so short of cash that he will have to borrow money to take his family on a short vacation in August, says Nicholson.

We will report on the finances of other presidential candidates in future columns.

Footnote: Bayh also talked to us about his finances. He knew nothing about the attempt to line up a $250,000 campaign loan from American Security and Trust, he said. He has no personal fortune, he said; indeed, he owes an Indianapolis bank $7,500.

Pro-Alcohol Director? — The Nixon administration may alienate the nation's teetotalers by its choice for the director of the new National Institute on Alcohol and Alcoholism. He is Dr. Morris E. Chafetz, author of the book "Liquor: The Servant of Man." The book contains such comments as, "Alcohol and sex have the same wonderful power to lift life to a different perspective," and "This writer has investigated (drinking) thoroughly and believes it is not wrong." Chafetz says he deliberately made the book favorable in an effort to bring out the positive side of the issue. He also points out that he has done a number of other, more serious books on the subject.

Under the Dome — Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., uses Binaca breath spray several times a day ... Hartke's colleague, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., is even more fastidious. He runs an electric razor over his face every afternoon in his office ... Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., has a secret superstition. He wears a lucky tie during his campaigns ... Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., also pays it safe. He works out in a conservative Spiro Agnew sweat shirt with a liberal John Lindsay T-shirt underneath.

Personal Slants

By DOUG KNEIBERT

According to folk lore, vacations are supposed to be times of relaxation and rejuvenation, preparing you to return to your job refreshed and with new energy.

Don't you believe it. What a vacation DOES do is point out how close all of us are to going to seed, mentally speaking, once we get out of the harness for any period of time.

Take me for instance. First day back on the job and here I sit at my desk, vacuously staring at a pile of papers. Instead of clearing them, I shuffle them aimlessly around. I can barely remember how to load my typewriter.

We are all like the old work horse: we perform well enough as long as we remain in the furrow, shackled by harness and blinders. But give us some open pasture for several days, and we have to learn all over again.

Weeds start springing up in crevices of our mind. We lack vitality and enthusiasm, and long only to lay prostrate on a beach and let the surf wash around our legs in total passivity.

Given enough time, however, and we will get back in the groove. After a few fumbling starts the harness won't rub so badly, and our rebellious natures will once again be soothed by the balm of routine.

Employers must understand this. When they give you a two-week vacation they are really giving you three. Two to enjoy, and one to recover from.

I do return with one bit of solid intelligence, however, gleaned from the tourist center in Vicksburg, Miss. W. V. Lemke of Smithton, I know where you were June 20: And you too, Albert Hathaway of Sedalia, on June 28.

Yes, Virginia, it is a small world.

In the way of followup, whatever happened to the Chamber's idea of about a year ago to build some new "welcome to Sedalia" signs on the city limits?

The idea, which was a good one, incorporated a brick and screen design, with the lower portion providing space for the various civic club plaques and information.

California has such a handsome marker of this type on its western approach. If California, why not Sedalia?

From the blow-your-stack department, come these items that are guaranteed to make your day a little more unbearable: — Switchboard operators who disconnect you on a direct-dial long distance phone call.

— People who keep the TV set on when you come to visit.

— Hamburger stands that give you all-ice sodas.

— The woman ahead of you in the express line who unloads $18.73 worth of groceries.

"OK! Who's the wise guy with the stickers?"

Albert Hints Viet Peace Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Carl Albert, citing confidential information from President Nixon, says "things are moving" in the administration effort to end the war.

Albert thus joined his Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield in praise of Nixon's apparent behind-the-scenes efforts for peace.

Mansfield said "full credit should be given to the President for the initiatives he has undertaken."

Albert, at a news conference Thursday, urged Nixon to take the American people into his confidence and give them more information about the move toward peace.

"I think he should be a little more specific," Albert said. "There is a gap between the President's knowledge of where he is and where the people think he is. I hope a way can be found without disturbing negotiations of taking the people more into his confidence."

The speaker, who had a private breakfast meeting Monday with Nixon, said he came away convinced the President's optimism about future success of his plan for ending the war is well-founded.

"I don't want to get too deep into this," Albert said, "but we are getting communications from Hanoi, directly and indirectly, from Paris and otherwise, that indicate things are moving."

Albert would not say whether the latest Viet Cong proposal at the Paris peace talks—for a simultaneous withdrawal of U.S. forces and release of U.S. war prisoners by North Vietnam—is related to information he received at the White House.

He said that on the basis of what he heard of the new offer it "sounded" like a possible basis for a withdrawal agreement but plans to study it more closely.

Albert, D-Okla., has strongly supported Nixon's Vietnam policy, although a majority of House Democrats now oppose it.

He said he feels certain Nixon has fixed a date for withdrawal of U.S. troops. "But I hope he never tells me or anyone else," Albert said.

He said it is the setting of a date in the various congressional resolutions calling for troop withdrawal that has led him to oppose them.

"Before the end of the various periods being proposed, we'll know whether the President's plan is working," he said.

Albert said if it ever becomes apparent the plan is not working he would favor some action by Congress. But its main role now should be to make sure all elements of the government work hard to assure success of the present policy.

Albert did not say what steps he would favor if the present policy proves unworkable, but indicated they would tend toward stronger military action.

Family Efforts Create School

KEOKUK, Iowa (AP) — A Christian grade school in Lucknow, India, has become a reality due to the efforts of a father and son team from Keokuk, Iowa. R. N. Hoerner Jr., who left this week to meet the some 300 children attending the school and take part in a formal dedication, and his father, R. N. Hoerner Sr., started on the project six years ago. Together they put up most of the money to fund the school's construction and maintenance.

It all started when a professor of political science, Sunder Singh, met the Hoerners during a visit to the Keokuk Rotary Club.

Dr. Singh, a native of India and a Methodist, told them of the great need for a Christian school in the area of Lucknow, located some 350 miles east of New Delhi.

The Hoerners and the professor visited several times about the subject and interest on the part of the two local men grew.

In 1966, plans were formulated and a charitable fund called "Ranjit Educational Fund" was set up to handle financing.

It took several years for land acquisition, construction, and setting up a system for instruction of pupils from kindergarten through 12th grade.

Dr. Singh, who teaches at Wisconsin State University, left the United States early in June to visit his family who lives about 60 miles south of Lucknow.

The younger Hoerner, who owns and publishes five newspapers including The Daily Gate City (his father is chairman emeritus of the Hoerner Waldorf Corp. board of directors), took a flight Tuesday. He was accompanied by his wife, 10-year-old daughter, and two geodes, Iowa's state rock.

One of the handsomely-mounted geodes will be presented at the dedication on behalf of Mayor H. A. Stephenson and the citizens of Keokuk. The other is to be given to India Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Both the men and the city they hail from will long be remembered in Lucknow. The school is named "Hoerner School" and a classroom door bears the name "Keokuk Room."

Suspects Indicted

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Five Tennessee men have been indicted by a federal grand jury on three counts of conspiring to transport and sell 85,000 amphetamine tablets and 5,000 phenobarbital tablets.

The men are Larry E. Vance, 25; his brother, Eugene P. Vance, 27; Glen Massey, 24, and Michael Harrel, 25, all of Memphis, and Franklin Jefferson Malone III, 21, of Clarksville.

They are accused of selling the tablets in a Kansas City hotel on June 16, when they were arrested.

Three persons were charged with selling 5,000 amphetamine tablets April 29 in Columbia. They are Terry Moore, 23, Rancho Mirage, Calif.; James Harry Smith, 27, Columbia, and Miss Bobbie Lynn Lucas, 20, Cynthia, Ky.

Charged with selling 256.2 grams of amphetamine powder May 3 in Columbia were Charles K. Lober, 22, of Kansas City, and Andrew R. Beckham, 20, Columbia.

Recalling Bon Vivant Soup Brand

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide search of 6,444 cans of Vichyssoise continued today as New York health officials tested the soup believed responsible for the death of a Westchester County man and paralysis of his wife.

The National Canners Association said Thursday distributors and retailers had been notified to return cans of the product bearing the Bon Vivant label and the code number V-141 to Bon Vivant, Inc., headquarters in Newark, N.J.

The group was known to have been distributed in metropolitan New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Houston, Albuquerque, N.M., and Birmingham, Ala.

The New York Health Department advised against eating any Bon Vivant products until laboratory tests could determine whether botulism toxin from the soup caused the death of Samuel Cochran Jr., 61, of Bedford Village, N.Y.

Cochran died Wednesday night after eating a can of the soup. His wife, Grace, 64, was left paralyzed and in critical condition.

The Westchester County Health Department reported the can opened by the Cochrans, another unopened can found in their home and three found in a local market were swollen, a sign of contamination.

Botulism is a rare but deadly noninfectious disease caused by bacteria that flourish in cans of food improperly processed.

Royals Win, 9-4

Drago Rough On California

ANAHEIM (AP) — For the Kansas City Royals, it was a lark.

For the California Angels it was a real drag.

Dick Drago hurled his third straight six-hitter and his third straight complete game victory over the Angels Thursday night as the Kansas City Royals romped to a 9-4 triumph.

Having lost three of four to the Royals, the Angels must now prepare for a four-game set with the front-running Oakland Athletics, beginning tonight.

Despite the fact that the A's have a 9½-game bulge in the American League West, Kansas City manager Bob Lemon was radiating confidence after Drago's performance.

"Who says we can't win it?" he asked. "They haven't conceded the pennant to anyone and as long as they don't we've still got a chance."

Lemon said the series with the Angels was an important one from the standpoint of restoring the Royals' confidence.

"We had just lost seven in a row and our heads were down a little," he said. "I liked the way we bounced back. We did it before when we lost four straight and we went into one of our biggest surges. Maybe we'll do it again."

While Drago was recording his eighth victory in 12 decisions, he was receiving 11-hit support from his mates.

Amos Otis was the leader, driving in three runs with a homer, his 13th, and a double while Paul Schaal contributed a key two-run double in the fourth inning when the Royals scored three times to snap a 2-2 tie.

They scored four times in the ninth against Fred Lasher to make it a rout.

The Angels managed a pair of runs in the second inning on singles by John Stephenson, Ken McMullen and Tony Conigliaro plus a runs-scoring grounder by Sandy Alomar.

An 8-7 Squeaker

Giants Add Loss To Cards' Woes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants may be experiencing some problems in what seems to be an annual midsummer slump, but one of them isn't winning games at Candlestick Park. Despite a 13-15 June record that found the club losing some ground in the National League West, the Giants bounced back Thursday and began July play with an 8-7 squeaker over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The victory gave the Giants a 30-11 record at Candlestick, compared with a 21-18 mark on the road. The club seeks its 10th straight home victory tonight when rookie Steve Stone, 5-6, opposes perennial problem Bob Gibson, 4-7.

"We just don't seem to get many breaks on the road, especially at the Astrodome," said Manager Charlie Fox, whose club returned from a brief trip to Houston and San Diego with a 2-4 record.

"We played well on the trip. But nothing went our way. We come back home and things start working in our favor."

Fox was referring to a six-run second inning, when a couple of singles barely found the hole and Tito Fuentes, blooper just dropped in for a two-run double.

St. Louis crept back and moved into a 6-6 tie on solo homers by Joe Torre and Lou Brock before the Giants staged their winning rally in the bottom of the sixth.

Singles by Hal Lanier and Fuentes prefaced Ken Henderson's game winning single, and Bobby Bonds' double added the final run. Relievers Don McMahon, 6-3, and Chris Zachary, 2-6, figured in the decision.

Initial Pocono Running Is Set

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Super road racer Mark Donohue, looking for his first triumph in Indianapolis-type competition, takes on the famed Unser brothers in another head-to-head duel Saturday in the Schaefer 500-mile race at rough, tough Pocono International Raceway.

It is the inaugural race at the new $6 million facility built in the heart of Pennsylvania's Pocono Mountain vacation land. And it is expected to draw at least 100,000 to an area served by two-lane roads that obviously were not built for traffic jams.

The race gets under way at 12 p.m., with Donohue, the Media, Pa., protege of ex-racer Roger Penske, starting his Sunoco-sponsored McLaren on the pole. The 32-year-old two-time U.S. road racing champ posted a four-lap qualifying speed of 172.393 miles per hour.

The Unsers, Bobby and Al, have the other front row spots. But even without Donohue's presence, the two brothers have had their own battle for UNSAC supremacy going for almost two years now.

Bobby, driving for the now retired Dan Gurney in an Olsonite Eagle, was the No. 2 qualifier at 171.847 m.p.h. Bobby hasn't won an event since June 16, 1970, but has finished second to his brother no less than five times since then. He also was runnerup to Al for the UNSAC driving title last year.

Al, two years younger than Bobby at 32, is the hottest driver presently in American racing. The stocky, dark-haired speedster won his second Indianapolis 500 in a row on May 29, and comes here with five triumphs in six starts. He also is among auto racing's biggest winners, taking home almost $750,000 in 15 months.

He qualified one of Parnelli Jones' Colt-Fords, the No. 1 Johnny Lightning Special, at 170.365 m.p.h. and on Wednesday turned laps over the 2.5 mile triangle-shaped course at speeds near that figure with a full load of fuel.

Newcombe, Smith in Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Stan Smith, the lanky soldier from Pasadena, Calif., will face John Newcombe Saturday in a bid to break Australia's hold on the Wimbledon tennis title. But he will be the underdog.

Most players and critics predict the final could be a long match, with sets perhaps going to 8-8 and a tie-breaker. Newcombe is favored to win for the third time in five years.

Ken Rosewall, the little 36-year-old Australian master who lost 1-6, 1-6, 3-6 to Newcombe in the semifinals Thursday said "Smith is a dangerous player and he must have a chance."

But Newcombe is much safer off the ground, and I make him favorite to win."

Smith reached the final Thursday with a 6-3, 8-6, 6-2 victory over Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., who was handicapped by a back injury.

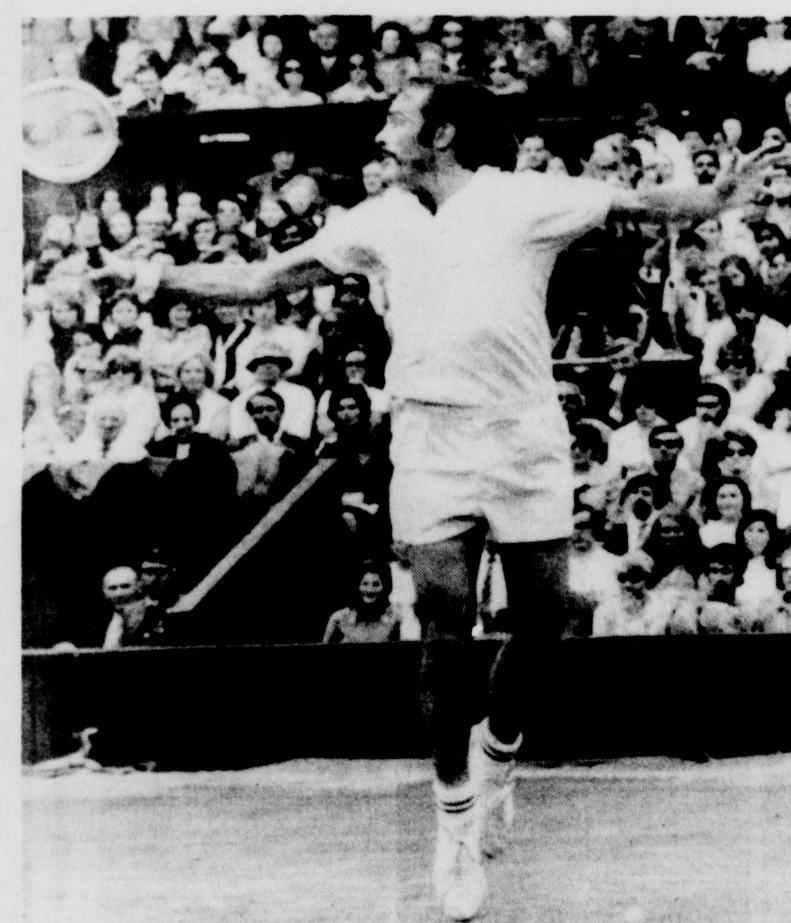

Fans slept all night on the sidewalks outside the All England club, hoping to see Evonne Goolagong, the 19-year-old Australian, dethrone the reigning queen, Mrs. Margaret Smith Court.

If Mrs. Court wins today and Newcombe wins Saturday they will make Wimbledon history. Since the challenge round was abolished in 1922, and the champion has had to play through from the first round, the two reigning singles champions have never retained their titles in the same year.

The tie-break, introduced this year, is the first major change at Wimbledon since the challenge round was scrapped. When any set except the decider—reaches 8-8, it is decided on a "sudden death" game of 12 points, with each player serving alternately.

Newcombe Returns

Australia's John Newcombe returns a shot to fellow Australian Ken Rosewall during their semifinal men's singles match Thursday at Wimbledon. Newcombe defeated Rosewall, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3, earning the right to meet Stan Smith in the finals of the men's singles event. (UPI)

Sedalians Win Golf Match

Sedalia solidified their hold on second place in the men's intercity golf standings Thursday by taking advantage of the Sedalia Country Club course and winning over Columbia in the competition, 294½-280. Fulton edged Jefferson City, 254½-251, to win third-place honors in Thursday's meet.

With two of the four intercity matches now complete, second-place Sedalia trails Columbia, who is in first place, by 50 points, 616-566.

Bernard Stanfield picked up the most points for Sedalia in the meet with 33½, while Gentry Patterson fired a 74 for the low Sedalia score.

Don Faurot fired a hole-in-one for Columbia on the 125-yard seventh hole. He used a nine iron and was playing in a foursome made up of Dick Norman, Jefferson City, Bob Osgood, Fulton, and Damon Hieronymus, Sedalia.

Faurot has been playing in intercity matches for 35 years and carded a 78 to pick up 32 points for Columbia, Thursday.

The next match in the intercity tourney will be played in Jefferson City, Thursday; the following Thursday, July 15, Fulton will host the final 18-hole meet.

Current Standings
Columbia 616, Sedalia 566, Fulton 499, Jefferson City 479.

Sedalia BJ Takes Over First Place

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

An unearned run in the bottom of the eighth inning, coupled with the five-hit pitching of Terry Hudson proved to be the difference the Sedalia Ban Johnson team needed to pull off a 2-1 win over Boonville and take over first place in the Western Division standings, Thursday night at Liberty Park Stadium.

Hudson, who went the distance, settled down after giving up three lead-off singles in the first three innings and hurled near perfect ball the rest of the way in guiding the locals to their sixth win of the year against three defeats in grabbing the Western Division's top spot in the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League.

Going into the contest, both teams were deadlocked in first place with identical 5-3 marks. The win gives Sedalia a full one-game lead over Boonville in the standings.

The throwing arm of Sedalia catcher Larry Neville kept Boonville off the board in the first two innings as Boonville placed their leadoff batters on first in both frames with line singles up the middle. However, Neville gunned down both Ed Wilmolt in the first and Steve Stock in the second as they tried to steal their way to second.

Sedalia got a runner to third in the bottom of the second on two errors by left fielder Terry Davis. With two out, Alan McCurdy lofted a fly to medium left field that Davis dropped. McCurdy rounded first and Davis fired the ball to his first baseman for his second error on the play when Gerald Bond couldn't handle the wide throw. McCurdy went all the way to third, but was left standing there, when Scott Schumaker struck out to end the inning.

Boonville scored their lone run on a pair of hits and an error in the third. Gerald Bond opened the inning by bounding a single up the middle, but Hudson got Terry Wolf, the next batter, on strikes.

The following batter, Steve Morris, hit a ball back to Hudson that looked like it would be a double play. After getting Bond at second, shortstop Pete Green's throw to first was too high for Schumaker to handle. Morris moved to second on the play and later crossed the plate on a single to right by Ed Wilmolt.

Sedalia mounted their second scoring threat in the bottom of the fifth, when Steve Holmes beat out an infield grounder to third. He stole second on a swinging third strike to Alan McCurdy, but moved on to third when the catcher's throw to second went into center field.

Scott Schumaker gave Sedalia another runner as he was issued a walk, but pitcher Terry Hudson lined an attempted bunt back to Boonville hurler Terry Wolf, who quickly doubled up Schumaker at first.

Sedalia knotted the score at 1-1 scoring an unearned run in their half of the sixth. Bob Pledge opened the inning by getting a free pass. Pledge moved on to third as Pete

Green lined a double down the left-field line putting runners on second and third with none out.

Catcher Larry Neville popped out to short center field. David Pirtle, the third-leading batter for Sedalia who went into the game carrying a .344 average, was given an intentional pass to load the bases. Steve Gerlec then grounded a ball to Sam Kosfeld at third base that forced Pledge at home.

However, Kosfeld committed a costly error that tied the game when he couldn't field a grounder off the bat of Steve Holmes. Green crossed the plate, evening the score. With the bases still loaded and two out, Alan McCurdy struck out to end the inning.

Hudson had retired 14 batters in a row until first baseman Gerald Bond got on base on a walk in the eighth. But Hudson got Terry Wolf on a bounce back to the mound and pinch hitter Dick McCoy on a strike out to end the inning.

Sedalia scored the winning run in the bottom of the eighth. Larry Neville reached first on an error by shortstop Dan Draffen, stole second, went to third on a sacrifice fly by David Pirtle and scored on another sacrifice fly, this one by Steve Gerlec.

Hudson picked up his third win of the season against one loss; Terry Wolf was charged with the defeat. Both pitchers went the distance.

Sedalia's next encounter will be Sunday night, again at Liberty Park, when they take on Jefferson City at 8 p.m.

New Franklin pounded Marshall, 8-3, and Centralia whipped Tipton, 9-6, in the only other league games Thursday night.

The Jefferson City-Columbia game, set for Wednesday night in Columbia, was postponed and will be played as part of a doubleheader July 7 at Jefferson City.

American Thinclads Take Aim on Russia

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — United States men's track and field forces aim to build a solid lead over the Russians today and avoid a repeat of the defeat they suffered last year in the Soviet Union.

Coch Dave Maggard's team counts heavily on the 100-meter dash, which the United States did not win last year, the 110-meter high hurdles, the pole vault and the shot put during the opening program of the USA-USSR World All-Star Meet at the University of California's Edwards Stadium.

Scoring will be on a dual meet basis between the United States and Russia, and the United States and the All-Stars.

The Russians objected to a play for a triangular meet scoring system, and it was abandoned.

In the Men's competition, most observers figure the meet will be close, with an advantage to the Russians in the gal's division.

The World All-Stars, with some great individual performers, are not figures as strong over-all.

Dr. Delano Meriwether, the 28-year-old hematologist, and Jim Green provided the United States speed in the 100, facing Russia's Valeriy Borzov, who won the event a year ago, and Aleksandr Korneliuk.

Rod Milburn, who last week cracked the world record with a 13.0 in the 120-yard high hurdles, and Ron Draper, who placed second to Milburn in the collegiate and AAU championships, are favored strongly in the 110-meter high hurdles.

Jan Johnson and Dave Roberts hold the hopes in the pole vault. Johnson, the 1970 NCAA champion from Kansas, won the AAU meet last week, clearing 17 feet. Roberts, of Rice, had the same height but more misses getting to it.

Russia's vaulters, Yurly Isakov and Gennadiy Gusev, have bettered 17 with Isakov holding the Russian record at 17.5. Both Johnson and Roberts have gone higher than that.

World shot put record holder

Randy Matson was so upset when he lost the AAU championship that he returned to the ring late in the evening to work on his form last Saturday.

Matson, with a lifetime world record best of 71-5½, teams with Karl Salb of Kansas, the collegiate and AAU champion, facing Romas Plunge and Valeriy and Volkin of Russia.

Salb has thrown 67-2½, while the Russians have best marks of 63-7 and 64-2½ respectively.

Today's program lists five decathlon events plus 10 finals for the men and seven for the women.

In the women's 100, both Iris Davis of Tennessee State and Pat Hawkins of Brooklyn have better times than Nadyezhda Besfamlnaya and Marina Nikiforova of Russia.

On the other hand, Lyudmila Braghina and Tamara Pangelova of the Soviet Union have run 1,500 meters faster than Uncle Sam's best—Doris Brown of Seattle.

The men's 10,000-meter run matches AAU champion Frank Shorter and Gerry Lindgren against Mikolay Sviridov and Valdimir Afonin of Russia.

Juan Martinez of Mexico and John Farrington of Australia race for the World All-Stars over the crushed volcanic rock track.

Lindgren first came to international notice when he bested the Russians at 10,000 meters as a high school senior in 1964.

The Russians appear strongest in the men's throwing events and the jumps. So Uncle Sam hopes to pile up points in the dashes and hurdles for this meet with its 4 p.m. PDT start.

Scoring will be on a basis of 5-3-2-1.

Deming Is Tied For Early Tourney Lead

MONTREAL (AP) — Rolf Deming is a former mathematics instructor at the University of Minnesota who admits to "an advertisement against adding up large numbers."

He didn't have to Thursday.

The addition came to 67, five under par, and gave the relative newcomer to the golf tour a share of the first round lead in the $150,000 Canadian Open Tournament.

Deming, 31, but only two years on the pro tour, was tied at that figure with four veterans Rod Funseth, Phil Rodgers and Lou Graham going into today's second round in the chase for the $30,000 first prize.

Canadian George Knudson and little Rod Curl were one stroke back at 68. Veteran Lionel Hebert and Canadian Ben Kern headed a group of seven at 69, three under par on the 6,920-yard Richelieu Golf Club course.

Arnold Palmer, one of the favorites despite a balky putter, was at 70. But the 41-year-old giant still had his problems on the greens, three-putting twice and using 34 putts.

South African Gary Player and United States Open king Lee Trevino had even more difficulties and were well back at 73.

Deming, a pleasant, hard-working player, hasn't come close to winning in his brief time on the tour. His best finish was a tie for fourth in the satellite Azalea Open.

He didn't make expenses last season, has won only $7,500 this season and admitted he has been "scraping the bottom of the barrel a couple times" after his sponsors had given up on him.

Deming served for two years as a mathematics instructor at Minnesota while working on an advanced degree, then gave it up to take a club job for five years.

He chipped in from off the green for two of his birdies, needed only 26 putts and said it is "one of the luckiest days I've ever had in golf."

O'Connor Record Grows in League

The Mike O'Connor softball team swept a league doubleheader from Warrensburg Unitog Thursday night in Housel Park, 8-3 and 10-7.

John Fiene was the winning pitcher in the opener, while Ed Dress was credited with the win in the second game.

Bill Dey went three-for-four in the opener against loser Lonnie Banks; Bones Harvey hit a homer for O'Connors as well.

In the second game, John Higgins and Bones Harvey pounded out three hits apiece; Dey also homered for O'Connors.

The wins moved O'Connors' mark to 23-1 in the Mid-Missouri Softball League and ran their overall mark to 33-3 for the season.

O'Connors will play Kingsville in the 8:30 p.m. game in the Whiteman Air Force Base Tournament tonight; Hamm's Beer and the host team are paired in the 7 p.m. opener.

Dr. Pepper Downs Warsaw Two Times

WARSAW — Dr. Pepper, a Sedalia men's softball team, whipped Warsaw in a twinbill Wednesday night here by scores of 12-11 and 9-5.

Dr. Pepper came up with five runs in the top of the seventh of the opener to pull off a come-from-behind victory. Jim Werneke was the winning pitcher, while Scott Hudson, Wayne Brandes and Werneke swatted home runs. Larry Hagedorn homered for Warsaw.

Dale Fangohr was the winning pitcher in the second contest, which went to Dr. Pepper by the score of 9-5.

Dr. Pepper will play Green Ridge on the road tonight in a doubleheader.

Heavy Racing Schedule

A big weekend of racing in central-Missouri is on tap for the long Fourth of July holiday.

Saturday night, enlarged racing programs will be held at both Capital Speedway, Holts Summit, and I-70 Speedway, Odessa.

At Capital Speedway, racing officials have added a midget division to their weekly program, bringing the number of divisions for Saturday night's card to five.

The other big Saturday night race will be held at I-70 Speedway, where WHB Radio of Kansas City will be sponsoring the WHB Firecracker 100 for late model stock cars on the ultra-modern half-mile asphalt track.

A gigantic fireworks display will be presented at the intermission of the WHB event.

First place in the I-70 show will pay $1,000 to the winner of the feature race, a 100-lapper.

Capital Speedway is offering another auto show at Holts Summit Sunday night, when a demolition derby will be held, along with a fireworks display.

Monday night at Capital Speedway, racing activity of another kind, motorcycles, will take over the three-eighths mile oval.

Rain Doesn't Slow Pittsburgh Hurlers

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

It rained on the Pittsburgh pitching parade but the much-battered Pirate staff marched home with a shutout.

The Pirates, who had yielded 54 runs in their nine previous games, blanked the New York Mets 3-0 Thursday on the combined efforts of four pitchers in a game that was delayed a total of an hour and 16 minutes and ended up as a twilight affair.

The victory—his 11th straight and 13 in 16 decisions—went to Dock Ellis, the tender-elbowed right-hander who was knocked out by the second rain delay after five innings.

In other National League action, Cincinnati swamped Philadelphia 5-1 in a night game that was delayed 2:05 by rain. San Francisco edged St. Louis 8-7, Atlanta took Montreal 7-3 and Houston and the Chicago Cubs were not scheduled.

The Pirates' combined a five-hit victory, in which Willie Stargell drove in his 80th run of the season, lifted them to a three-game lead over the Mets in the NL East.

"His elbow hasn't been real strong the last three or four times out, so I had to lift him after the second delay," Murtaugh said of his removal of Ellis, the winningest pitcher in the league, who gave up two hits. Each of the first two delays were 20 minutes.

Jim Nelson relieved Ellis and ran into trouble when the Mets loaded the bases on two singles and a walk with two out. Nelson Briles marched out of the bullpen to end the inning. Giusti, getting his 16th save, stopped the Mets in the seventh, waited out a 36 minutes rain delay and then allowed just one hit in finishing up.

When it wasn't raining in Philadelphia, Cincinnati's Jim McGlothlin was mopping up the Phillies.

The rain delay came in the third inning after Willie Montanez homered for the Phillies.

When play resumed it was all Cincinnati, with the Reds getting McGlothlin all the runs he needed with two in the fourth.

Atlanta ripped Montreal with a four-run ninth inning that was keyed by rookie Ralph Garr's second triple of the game. Garr also rapped two singles.

In AL East Race

Bosox Within 2½

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The on-again, off-again race in the American League East is on again.

The Boston Red Sox, given up for dead a week ago, are back on their roller coaster, going at full tilt and bearing down on the dragging Baltimore Orioles.

Rico Petrocelli of the Red Sox and Cleveland's Vada Pinson provided the latest ups and downs Thursday night with ninth inning home runs that pulled Boston within 2½ games of Baltimore, a surprising turn of events.

Petrocelli's homer, a three-run shot with one out in the ninth, sent the Red Sox winging past Detroit 8-7 for their seventh consecutive victory, about one hour after Pinson's blast with two out in the ninth gave the Indians a 3-2 conquest of the Orioles.

Now, after starting the season behind the heavily-favored Orioles, then overtaking them only to fall back again, Boston's latest upswing has put new fire into the race.

The same can't be said in the West where the Kansas City Royals beat the California Angels 7-2 and still stand a distant 9½ games behind the idle leader, Oakland.

In other AL games, Washington trimmed the New York Yankees 3-1 and the Chicago White Sox stopped Milwaukee 6-4.

Petrocelli's 12th homer into the upper left field deck came after Luis Aparicio was hit by a pitch and Reggie Smith singled, and marked the second time in the final two innings Boston came from behind.

Two runs on a ground out and pinch-hitter Phil Gagliano's single had pulled the Sox even 5-5 in the eighth. But Detroit went right back ahead on run-scoring singles by Dick Mulholland and Al Kaline in its half of the inning.

Then Petrocelli sent the Red Sox winging again, only one week after they had fallen eight games behind the Orioles and appeared lost.

But it's been that kind of season for them, dropping 3½ games back of Baltimore in mid-April, then putting together five-and six-game winning streaks to go four games ahead in late May. Then they lost five in a row and four straight and found themselves eight back before this latest splurge.

Meanwhile, the Orioles sank to their sixth defeat in eight games after appearing to have things well in hand as Jim Palmer took a 2-0 lead into the eighth on Frank Robinson's homer and Don Buford's run-scoring single off Sam McDowell.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Our old friend, Generous George, is back with us after a five-year absence occasioned by his generosity in selling some gold bricks at half-price. That is, half-price for gold but very high for what the bricks actually were made of.

He beamed on West and said, "I'm going to let you hold this first trick out of the goodness of my heart." West remembered George from before, gritted his teeth and led a second spade.

George said, "I'm afraid I have to win this one." Then George discarded the deuce of diamonds on the ace of spades.

After this start, it was a simple matter for George to play ace and another diamond to ruff high. Then a club to the nine and another diamond ruff set up dummy's last three diamonds. Two more trump leads took care of West's trumps and George was able to discard three of his hearts. He had to give West the last trick but he scored game and rubber.

George had been about as generous as a man giving ice to an Eskimo in mid-winter. If he had won the first trick, he would have had no way to keep East from getting in with a diamond. Then, if East had led a heart, his partner would cash two heart tricks and save the rubber.

Oh, yes, George's play has a name. It's called an avoidance play. It avoids letting the dangerous hand get the lead.

Johnson County Complex Plan Is Announced

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Officials have announced that a $12 million office and recreation complex will be built in Westwood, a Kansas City suburb in Johnson County, Kan.

Westwood is a community of about 2,300 population. The developer is Donald F. Tanner and Associates of Olathe, Kan.

Mayor Joe D. Dennis of Westwood said Wednesday agreement has been reached on the project, which calls for a ten-story, two-five-story and one three-story office buildings, plus nine tennis courts, a private clubhouse and four swimming pools.

The project, to be built on Westwood city property, is scheduled for completion in 1974.

Dennis said the agreement, with a 55-year lease, calls for the developer to pay Westwood $50,000 plus one per cent of all gross revenues until the year 2026 when the improvements revert to the city.

Sedalia Lodge No. 236, A.F. & A.M., will meet in regular communication on Friday, July 2, at 8:00 p.m. at the Masonic Temple, Broadway and Missouri. This is the business meeting of the month and all members are urged to come out and help with this business. Visiting brethren are always welcome.

Ann Landers

A Reader Offers Hints to Hikers

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing a letter which should be rerun in your column twice a year — every spring and every fall. There are the seasons when people enjoy hiking, camping out and exploring wild areas. It is always heartbreaking when someone does not return alive. Some of the most tragic and senseless deaths are caused by getting lost.

The following pointers could save a life. Please print them, Ann.

If you are lost, never go upstream or across country. Keep out of the thick timber and secluded areas. Stay in the open. Walk toward the areas where the light is brightest. Carry a whistle — and use it. Build a fire: searchers can see signs of a fire miles away.

It is not a disgrace to get lost. It has happened to the best of them. Should you become separated from the others, remember these pointers. They might save your life. And good luck. — E. K. of Wyoming.

Dear E. K.: Here are the pointers and my thanks for sending them. Take heed, nature lovers.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17, six months pregnant and not married.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Strange Burning Feeling Could Be Nerve Problem

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Something very strange is happening to me. The tips of my fingers get burning hot. The first time it happened I thought I had burned myself, because my husband's pipe was on the counter at the time I placed my hand there. But now it's more frequent and happens just anytime. What is it? I also have varicose veins and arthritis. Should I see a doctor or is it one of those things I ignore it it will go away?

Dear Reader — Yes, I think you should see a doctor. The burning sensation is probably secondary to irritation of the nerves. Sometimes changes in the vertebrae in the neck can cause pressure on the nerves that go to the fingers and cause burning. Any point between the spinal cord and the hand where pressure is exerted can cause this type of problem. Arthritis of the neck could be a cause. Even changes in the tendons at the wrist (called a carpal tunnel syndrome) can cause it.

Sleeping habits are sometimes responsible — the person who sleeps with the arms above the head in such a way that the nerves are under pressure or stretched. When iron beds were common some people would grasp the rods at the head of the bed. This would cause pressure on blood vessels and the nerves to the hand. Occasionally such a person would come to the doctor with atrophy of some of the muscles in the hands.

The only thing to do is have your doctor do a good examination to see if there is any cause for pressure that can be found.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I am a 13-year-old girl and in the eighth grade. The reason I am writing is because I weigh 180 and am five feet tall. Can you suggest anything that I can do?

BUSINESS NEWS

Over $200 was raised last weekend by the Sedalia Jaycees through the cooperation of the White Knight Car Wash at the State Fair Shopping Center. The funds will go to support the various Jaycees civic and community development projects.

July 3 — Adults Only

I want to put the baby up for adoption for two reasons. First, my parents and I never got along. Now that I am pregnant we fight all the time. You wouldn't believe the names my father has called me. I don't think this setup would be very good for a baby.

Another reason I believe adoption is the best thing is that I am anxious to go back to high school and graduate. After graduation, I want to get some kind of training so I can support myself. I know I should have thought of all this before I started to sleep with that jerk, but it's too late to change things. Now the best thing I can do is think of the future. What are your ideas? Should I keep the baby or not? — Temporarily Loused Up.

Dear Temp: A 17-year-old girl with no husband in sight can't offer a child much. I agree you should put the baby up for adoption. There are many childless couples who desperately want a child. It would mean a great deal to them to have a baby — and the baby would be dearly loved.

Too often the unwed mother keeps her child to fill her own needs — with no concern for the needs of her child. I applaud your decision and I wish you luck.

Dear Ann Landers: I own two automobiles and live in an apartment building. There is no garage nearby so I have to park the cars outside. The couple who lives above me has a miserable cat. They let the cat out every day and don't care what he does. This might sound like a petty complaint to you but to me, it's a serious matter. That goldarn cat climbs all over the roof, the hood and the trunk of my cars and has scratched them up so bad I've had to repaint twice.

I've complained to the people but they could care less. They insist there is nothing they can do. The best solution I can think of is to shoot the damn cat. Can you come up with a better idea? — Annoyed in Massachusetts.

Dear Annoyed: I sure can. The law says people are responsible for the damage done by their pets. If you shoot the cat you will have to hire a lawyer to defend yourself. So why not hire a lawyer to make these people pay for the paint jobs?

Date Is Set For Group's First Play

"Dirty Work at the Crossroads," a turn-of-the-century melodrama to be presented as the first production of the Sedalia Community Theater Group July 21, will star Kathy Seley and Chris Marcum.

Miss Seley will play the role of Nellie Lovelace and Marcum portrays Adam Oakhart.

The show will be staged at the Student Union at State Fair Community College and will run for three days.

Directed by Joan Baker and Joyce Mathews, the play also stars Craig Thorp as Monro Murgatroyd, Debbie Walker as Widow Lovelace, Marti Corson as Ida Rhinegold, Dan Embree as Mookie Maguggins, Joyce Mathews as Mrs. Upson Asterbilt, Margaret Swords as Leonie and Maggie Hurr as Fleurette.

Sedalians of all ages toured the Post Office Thursday to join the 103 area postal employees and their families in celebrating the changing of the Post Office Department to an improved postal system. Here, dispatch clerk

Kenneth Clifford, 1415 East 14th, demonstrates how a letter-cancelling machine operates. The machine, which prints the time, date, place and ZIP code, can cancel nearly 3,000 post cards a minute, according to Clifford. (Democrat-Capitol Photo)

Visit 'New Look' Post Office

As of 1 p.m. Thursday, about 400 Sedalians had visited the Post Office Building here to view facilities and equipment, take guided tours and purchase "first-day" issue stamps and envelopes.

The occasion was the initiation of the United States Postal Service, an independent organization of the federal government which Thursday replaced the almost 200-year-old Post Office Department.

Refreshments were served and visitors were given thorough explanations of how the new system would work.

People from different walks of life and age-groups, many of them for the first time, got a glimpse of what really goes on behind a mail clerk's counter.

As 84-year-old Mrs. A. J. Holtz, 519 West 20th put it, "I think it's wonderful. And the conveniences they have in this day and age... You don't know what it's like till you get out and see it."

Mrs. Holtz said she receives at least one letter from her son in Mobile, Ala., besides "a few letters from others, magazines from California and Oklahoma, and church papers every week," plus the usual quota of "junk" mail.

Among the things Mrs. Holtz learned during the tour was that it is legal to send unsolicited mail through the postal system.

Mrs. Holtz had compliments for the Sedalia Post Office. "I don't think they charge too much for stamps now. I think they need that money to run a place like this." She pointed out that a tour through a post office "causes you to have more patience" with mail carriers and others who work for the new postal service.

"We have a wonderful carrier on our route," she continued. "He even picks up letters from my mail box. Do they have to do that?" she asked.

Postmaster Maurice Hogan said that mail carriers are required to pick up outgoing mail from mail boxes "only if the carrier has a delivery to make." He added, "Many of my men pick up if they see a letter sticking out of the box. Not all do. Depends on the individual."

Hogan said that the new name and changes in the postal system are "a real challenge" to his staff. "Everyone in the mail service realizes it can be improved," he said.

"We are on the threshold of a different type of service, the changes being mostly in structure and management. We don't have anyone who can perform overnight miracles but the top management has promised changes," Hogan said.

Analysts Say American Steel Profits Narrowing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The American steel industry, which twice in this decade boasted profits of more than $1 billion, is ill, analysts say. The symptoms: Increased imports, skyrocketing costs and narrowing profits, which promise to be pinched even more later this year by an expensive wage settlement with the United Steelworkers Union.

The labor contract is the industry's most immediate problem, and the government, expressing deep concern, has stepped in and will meet with the companies and union next week on the eve of the wage talks.

But there are bigger problems. Experts say that foremost among them is imports.

This year alone, imports set monthly records in January, February and March. In May, 1.8 million tons of foreign steel entered U.S. ports, the second highest ever for a single month.

The industry had been counting on a record first-half in hopes of extricating itself from a profit squeeze in 1970 which sent aggregate earnings down to $513.2 million, the lowest annual earnings since 1947.

As a result, the industry now is shutting down some operations and laying off employees.

U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, made cutbacks at its Edgar Thompson plant near Pittsburgh, laying off 2,000 or 3,000 men; Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp., made cutbacks at its Monessen and Allentown, Pa., plants; Bethlehem Steel, second-ranked, said Thursday it was laying off some 920 employees at its Lackawanna plant near Buffalo, N.Y., and Republic Steel said it was laying off 2,500 of the 3,000 employees at its Lackawanna plant for a week.

Other production and employee cutbacks were announced earlier this year by many smaller producers.

The union already has put the industry on notice that it has no plans to accept less than it won for workers in the aluminum and can industries, reportedly 31 per cent over three years.

Halts Actual Callups

WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective Service Director Curtis W. Tarr ordered states Thursday to continue all draft procedures except actual callups until Congress renews the draft law that expired midnight Wednesday.

But Senate Armed Services Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said "the outlook for the draft law is highly uncertain" unless the House, Senate and President Nixon can break a "triple-headed deadlock" on mandating a Vietnam war halt.

House-Senate conferees broke off efforts Wednesday until July 7 to work out a compromise two-year draft extension bill when they snagged on Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment calling for a U.S. pullout in nine months if American prisoners are released.

Using that figure as a guideline, it would push the steelworker's first-year average hourly wage of a steelworker to about $5, excluding fringe benefits.

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average hourly wage for a steelworker in 1970 was $4.22.

It has been estimated that a 31 per cent settlement would cost the industry more than $700 million the first year, or 40 per cent more than the industry's total profits for 1970.

Tarr, who earlier advised states to halt nearly all draft procedures after midnight Wednesday, wired them Thursday to continue preinduction physicals, classification appeals and other procedures short of the actual draft.

Tarr also announced the 1972 draft lottery, which had been planned in about two weeks, will be announced after Congress extends the draft.

A spokesman said Tarr could hold the draft lottery without the renewed draft authority.

Selective Service officials said nearly all draft procedures came to a halt across the country with no reported problems except for conscientious objectors who were uncertain whether they could start serving their two-year civilian service immediately without a draft.

Declare Communist Offer Unacceptable

WASHINGTON (AP) — Probing for the possibility of a breakthrough in the Paris talks, the White House declared Thursday that it finds "positive as well as clearly unacceptable" provisions in a new Communist proposal for U.S. withdrawal from South Vietnam and release of American prisoners of war.

President Nixon is expected to instruct U.S. Ambassador David Bruce to explore the new proposal fully in further contacts with Communist negotiators in Paris in the next few days.

The essence of what was new and presumably found here to be positive in the Communist proposal is a call for the withdrawal of U.S. forces and the release of U.S. prisoners of war simultaneously before the end of the year.

The key element, which seems to come close to meeting terms implied by President Nixon in statements earlier this year, was reported to Washington as follows:

"If the U.S. government sets a terminal date for the withdrawal from South Vietnam in 1971 of the totality of U.S. forces and those of other foreign countries in the U.S. camp, the parties will at the same time agree on the modalities (a) of the withdrawal and safety from South Vietnam of the totality of U.S. forces and those of other foreign countries in the U.S. camp, (b) of the release of the totality of military men of all parties and of the civilians captured in the war, including American pilots captured in Vietnam so that they may all return rapidly to their homes."

White House press secretary Ronald Ziegler said "there appear to be positive as well as clearly unacceptable elements in the proposal."

He declined to give further details, adding only that the U.S. would not accept any arrangements that would turn "17 million South Vietnamese over to the Communists."

One of the demands stated in Paris by Viet Cong negotiator Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh was that "the United States government must stop the policy of 'Vietnamization' of the war."

The Nixon administration appeared to reject that point because of President Nixon's basic policy of pursuing his Vietnamization program to conclusion.

U.S. officials privately were interested but skeptical about the Communist negotiating maneuver, which they said was open to several possible interpretations.

Officials said Communist leaders may simply be trying to stir up fresh trouble between Washington and Saigon in a Vietnamese presidential election year when they may consider the Saigon government particularly vulnerable.

Another motive suggested here was that Communist leaders had decided that defeat of proposals in Congress demanding Nixon withdraw all U.S. forces immediately called for some new impetus to be given the campaign in the United States against the administration's policy.

Ellsberg Withholds Sections of Papers

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dr. Daniel Ellsberg said Thursday that he withheld from the press sections of the Pentagon papers because they might jeopardize future private negotiations to end the war in Vietnam.

Ellsberg, a researcher at Massachusetts Institute of Technology who helped write the study of the origins of the war, told a news conference that several of the documents reveal private diplomatic channels "which might be used in the future for negotiations."

"Although we use these channels infrequently, I didn't want to get in the way of any negotiations so I didn't give those documents to the public," he said.

Ellsberg said that he did turn over the sensitive sections of the Pentagon study to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Ellsberg, 40, said his decision to release classified documents stemmed partly "from my perception in the spring of 1969 that the Nixon administration was susceptible to the same traps of arrogance" that hampered earlier administrations in their conduct of the war.

"I reached the point where I could no longer justify the secrecy," he said.

Ellsberg, who was indicted by a federal grand jury in Los Angeles on charges of unauthorized possession of secret documents and theft of government property, declined to discuss how he obtained the documents or whether he personally provided them to each newspaper which published them. He is free on bond.

The New York Times initiated publications of the Pentagon papers and was quickly followed by the Washington Post, the Boston Globe and several other newspapers.

Ellsberg said he agrees with criticism that the documents do not represent a complete picture of United States involvement in Vietnam.

"I do agree that it's an incomplete report. There are many limits on the study. But it's a beginning of an honest history and a creditable one."

Ellsberg called on other officials in the four administrations covered by the Pentagon study to release additional information they might have which would complete the picture of the U.S. role in Indochina.

"The concealment of information for 20 years has led to the deaths of over 50,000 Americans and hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese. That's why I released the documents," he said.

Counseling Center Is Open Once Again

After being closed for a month, the Sedalia Counseling Center, 637 East 15th, re-opened its doors Thursday.

Due to financial difficulties, the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center in Columbia, which operates the Sedalia facility, was forced to close it during June.

Services provided by the Center are expected to be the same except in one area. Prior to March 2, a visiting psychiatrist came to the center each Tuesday. Since then, funds to pay the psychiatrist, who was hired on a part-time basis, were cut off and no other psychiatrist has been hired to take his place.

Now visiting the Center facility on a weekly basis are a drug and alcoholic counselor, a psychiatric nurse, two psychiatric counselors, and some volunteer counselors.

A patient with a serious mental problem is either referred to Columbia for treatment, or the psychiatric counselors here call a consultant at the Mid-Missouri Mental Health Center in Columbia, it was reported.

The local Center will be open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Fridays.

The counselor for persons with drug or alcohol problems visits the Center each Tuesday. The psychiatric nurse and the two psychiatric counselors are at the Center each Thursday. The Center also provides counseling service on problems concerning marriage, youth, families and child guidance.

Mrs. Ruth Shaffer, 138 Rainbow Drive, contact worker and receptionist for the Center, said that 30 to 40 patients a week were using the services provided here.

The Sedalia facility was launched in 1957, with visits by counselors every other week. In 1968, visits by the counseling teams were expanded to once a week. In 1970 the present counseling center established its five-day a week schedule.

Mrs. Shaffer said that the Center here is considered one of the largest in the state. "The center not only serves 13 counties, but also has to squeeze in people from nearby counties such as Benton and Johnson, which are not in our coverage area," she said.

The Sedalia Counseling Center is operated with state funds and through what patients can afford to pay, Mrs. Shaffer said.

"We always have a lot of people waiting to see our counselors. We have a long waiting list," she said.

Pentagon Papers Lift Lid on Vietnam Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon papers lift the lid on how North Vietnam survived the fury of American bombing through 1965, the year the United States entered the war fully.

Copies of the top-secret documents released by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, also disclosed things might have been a lot worse for the North Vietnamese had President Johnson adopted a proposal by the late John McNaughton, then an assistant secretary of Defense.

This was for a plan to destroy the complex of locks and dams in the North, thereby shallow-flooding the rice fields and raising the possibility of famine.

Contending the plan, if properly handled, could "offer promise," a McNaughton memorandum quoted in the documents added:

"It should be studied. Such destruction does not kill or drown people. By shallow-flooding the rice, it leads after time to widespread starvation of more than a million unless food is provided..."

This, the McNaughton memo added, the United States could offer to do "at the conference table."

The Pentagon analysis gave no clue as to where the McNaughton plan ended up but it was never implemented.

After American intervention in force that year, the expectation among some Washington policy-makers, according to the papers, was that a patient old revolutionary like Ho Chi Minh might defer his dream of taking over South Vietnam until another day, after the American blast was spent.

Instead, the documents said, Hanoi remained as defiant as ever, its leaders seemingly resolved to endure the worst until the Americans were beaten.

Indeed, the Communists shifted their Southern strategy from all-out attack to that of the long haul—"designed to wear out the opposition and prepare the ground for an eventual political settlement."

"There was no sign," the Pentagon analysis said, "that bombing the North either alone, or in combination with other U.S. actions, had brought about any greater readiness to settle except on their terms."

Explaining what went wrong, the Pentagon analysis concluded:

The terrain in Vietnam did not lend itself to effective deployment of modern weapons. There were no obvious industrial targets to hit. There were few sizable concentrations of power, and thus few opportunities for forces of each side to slug it out.

Instead, in many ways it was a fight against guerrilla phantoms, with the troops of North Vietnam linking up with the Viet Cong insurgents of the South, while all the time intrigue, maneuver, internecine rivalries weakened the Saigon government.

As if that were not enough, said the documents, political factors tied one of President Johnson's hands behind his back. To lash out too hard against the North would be to risk world war which the President—disregarding Secretary of State Dean Rusk's advice—was not prepared to do. To campaign too softly would, in McNaughton's words, be to produce "an escalating stalemate" that would bog down American forces indefinitely.

Examining the effects of the American bombing attack on North Vietnam, the Pentagon writers offered the following explanation, based on U.S. intelligence reports and on observations of witnesses:

"In the North the regime batted down and prepared to ride out the storm. With Soviet and Chinese help it greatly strengthened its air defenses, multiplying radar, expanding the number of jet radars, expanding the number of jet fighter airfields and the jet fighter force, and introducing an extensive SAM (surface-to-air-missile) system."

"Economic development plans were laid aside. Imports were increased to offset production losses. Bombed facilities were in most cases simply abandoned. The large and vulnerable barracks and storage depots were replaced by dispersed and concealed ones."

"Several hundred thousand workers were mobilized to keep the transportation system operational. Miles of bypass roads were built around choke-points to make the system redundant. Knocked-out bridges were replaced by fords, ferries or alternate structures. Traffic shifted to night time, poor weather and camouflage."

Difficulties abounded, said the report, "Yet North Vietnam survived. The regime had not collapsed and it had not given in. And it still sent men and supplies into South Vietnam."

In Saigon, American diplomats and soldiers were earnestly consulting their superiors back home on how to deal with things.

In Washington such men as Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara were talking of pouring in more reinforcements—"perhaps 600,000 men or more" he wrote on Dec. 7, 1965—to hold the line.

Putting Your Sleep To Work For You

Scientists at the University of Florida report "the first clear-cut evidence of some possibility of learning while asleep."

In studies sponsored by agencies of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, high school and college students attempted to learn 12 pairs of Russian-English nouns while asleep. None of the subjects had any prior knowledge of Russian.

Before a taped recording of noun pairs was played, the sleeping subjects heard the words: "This is your Russian teacher ... You are asleep and relaxed and you can hear my voice, and you will not wake up ... You will remember these words and their meanings forever ..."

The pattern of scores over five consecutive nights indicates that the ability to learn while asleep improves with training and practice. Some of the subjects achieved retention scores as high as 30 per cent.

All of which suggests any number of horrendous possibilities, a la 1984. One can imagine, for instance, a political dissenter being subjected during sleep to a tape that repeated and repeated: "This is your Maximum Leader ... You will love me forever ..."

Despite the impressive scores registered in the Florida studies, however, the old dream of every lazy schoolboy of painless, passive learning seems as distant as ever. While 30 per cent retention may be high for someone who is asleep, it doesn't compare with the retention he could achieve while awake.

Come to think of it, generations of schoolboys have tried their own experiments with learning while asleep — right in the classroom — and most of them have met with rude and sorry awakenings.

Snarl of Red Tape Took Much Effort

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — Congressman Jim Wright of Texas has held hearings on red tape in the federal government.

The hearings were inspired by some statistics his staff dug up, including the fact that whereas in 1966 it took 79 days to process a public works grant for hard-hit unemployment areas, it now takes 348 days.

A small business loan that once took 125 days to process now takes 309.

A federal highway program which once took six months to start after the plans were formulated now takes six years.

The big question that Congressman Wright has been trying to answer is: "How does the government manage to do it?"

What Congressman Wright doesn't know is that there is an entire government department devoted to finding new and more efficient ways of delaying federal programs.

One of its major troubleshooters is Archie Falstaff, who has the title of Inspector General, Red Tape and Paper Shuffling Division, GS 4.

Archie told me that thanks to modern technology and communications he has been able to triple the amount of paper work in almost every branch of the government.

"Our secret," he said, "is having the wrong people in the right place at the wrong time. The more people you have involved in a federal project the more chance you have of making it ineffectual. But it's not a question of bodies. You have to watch and make sure that no one in the organization has the authority to make a decision.

"For example, I had a case a few months ago concerning air pollution. We noticed that universities and colleges were being given grants for research in air pollution without any difficulty, and we smelled a rat.

"So we infiltrated the department and discovered an ecological nut who was okaying the grants without sending them upstairs for future study, which usually takes a couple of years. We closed the loopholes by making a regulation that 40 people, none of them involved in air pollution, had to unanimously approve any federal money spent for research. Since then not one school has qualified for a grant."

"I hope you took care of the troublemaker," I said.

"He's now working in the mailroom. Sometimes, though, we run into a situation where no one is at fault.

"Several months ago, a man whose laundry burned down came to the small business administration for a loan. He presented references from his bank and filled out all the forms. Because everything seemed in order, the bureaucrat in charge gave him the loan in less than six months.

"This was unheard of, and we decided to have a full investigation. We discovered the fault was not with the bureaucrat but with the forms, which were much too short and easy to understand.

"So we put our people on it and developed a new form, which was three times as long and so complicated no small businessman could fill it out without making 20 mistakes. Now that they're using the new forms we've quadrupled the time it takes to process an SBA loan."

"That was good planning," I said.

"I believe our greatest contribution to government red tape in the last few years is that we've seen to it that no single department has the final decision on any program.

"Suppose a mayor of a city comes to Washington to get federal money for a summer program. Our rules are that he can't get the money until winter.

"We'll send him to one department where he'll be shunted off to another, who after making recommendations will pass it on to a third department, who will throw it back to the first. If the mayor keeps bugging us and insisting on the money, we'll take him to court."

Merry-Go-Round

Fiscal Resolutions Considered by Nixon

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is preparing some New Year's resolutions, affecting the pocketbook of every American, for the new fiscal year that begins Thursday.

He is torn between his political advisers who want to get the economy booming again before the 1972 election, and his economic advisers who warn that too much government stimulus could cause skyrocketing inflation.

Nixon vigorously denounced inflation and attacked deficit spending during the 1968 presidential campaign. Yet he wound up the 1971 fiscal year Wednesday with an estimated $20 billion deficit. His own economists expect the deficit to reach another $20 billion in the 1972 fiscal year. This will make a whopping, two-year total of $40 billion, highest in peacetime history.

Nixon also declared at his first presidential press conference that he wouldn't set guidelines for labor and management. Now the nation faces a hot summer of labor-management strife. Critical strikes are expected by the dock, copper, telephone and steel unions. These could be followed by a coal strike in September. In desperation the President has tried to set guidelines, which the unions are ignoring.

Nixon told business leaders in 1969 that "those who bet on inflation will lose their bets," called for a balanced budget in his 1970 State of the Union address and repeatedly promised "full employment." Yet he has failed to halt inflation; he is plunging the government deeper in debt; and unemployment is high.

Many factories, meanwhile, are operating at only 75 per cent of their capacity, and the decline in profits has reduced the government's tax take.

The situation is so serious, in the opinion of his political advisers, that they are urging drastic remedies. They are willing to risk more inflation if this is what it takes to stimulate the economy.

But White House economists, while admitting that the economy has been more sluggish than they had anticipated, see hopeful signs.

The gross national product, the sum total of the nation's economic activity, jumped $31 billion in the first quarter and is expected to rise another $20 billion in the second quarter. Construction is booming; retail sales are up; consumer sentiment surveys are hopeful.

And if unemployment is holding at 6 per cent, at least employment is up because of an increase in the work force.

Conclusion: insiders say the President is listening more closely to his economists and, therefore, his New Year's resolutions will be moderate.

Conscientious Objectors — Draft Director Curtis Tarr and Peace Corps Chief Joseph Blatchford, working out together on the tennis court, have been battling words along with balls back and forth across the net. Tarr wants the Peace Corps to accept more conscientious objectors. But Blatchford won't go beyond the present policy. If a local board sends a conscientious objector to the Peace Corps and he meets the qualifications, Blatchford will take him. About a dozen objectors are now doing their time in the Peace Corps. But Blatchford doesn't want to make the Corps a haven for refugees from the draft. He's looking for "skilled" volunteers.

Ailing Aide — The FBI is presently without a No. 2 man. Clyde Tolson, faithful factotum to J. Edgar Hoover, has been ailing and away from work. Tolson has been Hoover's constant lunching and dining companion. But lately, the ramrod straight old director has marched into the Mayflower Hotel's ornate Rib Room for lunch alone. My reporters, who tail him, FBI style, from time to time, say he is ushered to a corner where he can sit with his back against the wall. Above his head hangs a historical print of William the Conqueror. Hoover proceeds to conquer a salad and a cup of coffee. A half hour later, he walks erectly to his bulletproof limousine and is whisked back to his equally lonely office at FBI headquarters. At this writing, Tolson's office was telling callers they did not know when he would be back to work.

Under the Dome — Senators would like to see a match between William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., for the push-up championship of the Senate... Though both are in athletic trim, the betting is that the 68-year-old Thurmond would out-push the 55-year-old Proxmire. Old Strom keeps fit by standing on his head, lifting barbells and pumping a bike two miles every day.

Russians Hold Key To World Peace

By LEON DENNEN
NEA News Analyst

NEW YORK (NEA) — Cautiously, but hopefully, President Nixon continues to test the Communist powers for signs of genuine desire for East-West detente. He takes political risks to advance the "era of negotiation and not confrontation."

What, then, are the prospects for peace?

The United States and NATO will not achieve a durable peace until the Russians are convinced that diplomatic negotiations are a two-way street.

The balance of forces between the United States and Russia remains the decisive power relationship in the world today. Undeveloped Red China is still only a potential threat.

The West will not make a success of the jigsaw puzzle of its negotiations with Moscow until it has a clear Russian policy. Such a policy should be based on:

—A realistic assessment of the Kremlin's ideology.

—A pragmatic view of Russia's economic and political position.

—Moscow's claim to leadership of the Red world.

Contrary to vocal "peace advocates" in and out of the Senate, the basic purpose of the United States should be to foster the establishment of a viable international order — a stable structure for peaceful development.

It is the Communists with their global aims and aggressions who are the basic disturbers of peace.

The Soviet leaders want the economic and diplomatic benefits of a "nonaggression" treaty with West Germany. Yet they will not honor their promise to Chancellor Willy Brandt to settle the question of West Berlin.

The Russians ostensibly seek peace in the Middle East while expanding their Navy in the Mediterranean and tightening their stranglehold on the Arab countries.

To be sure, the Kremlin leaders want a European security conference but their central objective remains unaltered. This is the breaking up of the NATO alliance, a withdrawal of the United States behind the Atlantic and a fragmentation of Western Europe, leaving Russia dominant over all Eurasia.

Above all, the Kremlin rulers, like their Chinese counterparts, never abandoned the idea of the relentless progress of history toward a Communist future.

For strategic reasons they preach "peaceful coexistence" and detente from time to time. But they still stand for world revolution and the ultimate destruction of democratic society.

Nevertheless, the Russians must engage in diplomatic negotiations because they are also vulnerable. More often than not they lead from weakness and not from strength.

The cost of their foreign policy — the two-front army in Europe and on the Chinese border, the bid for nuclear superiority, the massive aid to Egypt, North Vietnam and Cuba — has outrun their economy's ability to pay.

In fact, the dismal performance of

Space Is Cluttered By Junk

COLORADO SPRINGS (NEA) — Keeping track of some 2,400 stray objects is no mean feat, particularly when they are invisible to the naked eye and scattered over millions of miles of space.

But it is the feat being performed daily to computerized perfection for the past 10 years by men stationed deep inside a mountain outside Colorado Springs who comprise the North American Air Defense Command's Space Defense Center.

This is the nerve center of a world-spanning net of camera- and radar-equipped tracking stations which feed back information on earth-orbiting objects — up to 16,000 separate reports a day.

Of the thousands of objects out there, less than 500 are payloads, functioning or once-functioning satellites. The rest is junk, useless debris left in orbit by launchings long past. All are important to the center which, before missions such as upcoming Apollo 15, chart the space traffic astronauts will encounter.

Prospects of a collision in space are as yet very remote, something like a million to one against a mishap. But that could change if the space of launchings continues to pick up in coming years.

The Space Defense Center had its origins in satellite tracking operations set up by the Air Force and Navy after the launching of the Soviet's Sputnik I. In 1961, the separate facilities were reconstituted at Colorado Springs as the Space Defense Center, which five years later moved into NORAD's Combat Operations Center inside Cheyenne Mountain.

Its primary task for NORAD, the joint U.S.-Canadian military command charged with defending the continent from air attack, is to detect incoming enemy missiles. In the absence of these, the preoccupation with nonmenacing objects in space has been a natural development.

The Space Defense Center enters its second decade this July and as the business is going here and abroad, satellite tracking should be keeping it busier than ever. It is a secondary function, but hopefully the only one the center will ever be called upon to perform.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The gypsy moth, a destructive insect whose larvae defoliate deciduous and evergreen trees, was brought to Massachusetts from Europe around 1869 and became a serious pest in 1889. The World Almanac notes. It has been confined to the northeastern United States by import of insect parasites, use of insecticides and quarantine.

Russia's economy is one major reason why the Kremlin leaders now want a breathing spell.

Equally important is Moscow's declining position as leader of world communism. Because of the Russian-Chinese ideological conflict, rival variants of the Marxist-Leninist doctrine now claim the attention of radicals.

European and Latin American leftists accuse the Kremlin of blindly seeking to impose its own revolutionary experience upon their countries.

Communists in the undeveloped countries of Africa and Asia — especially in North Vietnam, North Korea, Laos and Cambodia — now look to China and not to Moscow.

Russia's problems must be assessed realistically in any diplomatic negotiations with Moscow. Obviously there must be continued contact between the United States and Russia and agreements between the two great nuclear powers are desirable on a whole series of problems.

But the West must have a clear Russian policy to achieve a durable peace.

"You know," said Alice, "that battle between Tweedledum and Tweedledee was not about a rattle. It was about this hand."

"I was lost in the darkest forest I had ever seen when I saw a small house in the middle of a clearing. I walked in. A card table was set up. An enormous turtle sat North and quiet-looking twins sat East and West. The turtle said, 'Cut, Dum.' Then he said to me, 'Sit down and play. These are Tweedledum and Tweedledee. I am the Mock Turtle.'"

"The bidding went as shown in the box. I was going to seven no-trump without Dee's double. The heart lead gave me four heart tricks. Then I started on clubs. The jack of clubs dropped and my 10 of clubs squeezed poor Dee. He had to chuck a diamond, so I had four diamond tricks. The ace of spades was my 13th.

"Then the fight started and we never got to finish the rubber. Dum didn't like Dee's double. Dee didn't like Dum's lead. Not that it mattered. I was sure of 13 tricks on any lead, since East was in a progressive squeeze."

"Did you ever get an explanation of the Mock Turtle's bidding? Was his four-club call a transfer bid?"

"Of course not," replied Alice. "They do everything backwards in Wonderland. We were playing in the Black Wood, so naturally he was using Gerber."

Largest Single Cutback

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced Thursday the biggest single cutback of American troops in Vietnam to date. Included was the last U.S. unit defending South Vietnam's borders.

The command said 40 Army units with authorized strength of 6,095 men were being pulled out of combat to prepare for reassignment.

Reflecting the diminishing U.S. role in South Vietnam, the U.S. Command, also reported 21 Americans killed in combat last week, the second lowest weekly toll in 5 1/2 years.

Included in the withdrawals are units of the 1st Brigade, 5th Mechanized Infantry Division, which has been holding part of the front along the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Vietnam.

Also being withdrawn are parts of the 173rd Airborne Brigade, the first Army combat unit to arrive in Vietnam. It came in early May 1965, only two months after the first U.S. Marines arrived.

Each of the brigades numbers 5,000 men. Although only some units from each were listed in the latest cutback announcement, withdrawal of both brigades is expected to be completed within the next two months.

The cutback is part of the eighth round of the Nixon administration's disengagement from Vietnam. It started two years ago when American troop strength was at a peak of 543,400. So far, troop strength has been cut nearly by half to 241,000 and is scheduled to drop to 184,000 men by Dec. 1.

As the imminent withdrawals were announced, U.S. B52 bombers flew their heaviest concentrated raids in 10 months.

Seven waves of the eight-engine bombers pounded North Vietnamese positions just below the demilitarized zone, saturating the area around Fire Base Fuller with 630 tons of high explosives.

Fuller, a battered mountain outpost four miles south of the DMZ, has been a focal point of heavy fighting over the past two weeks.

Ground fighting along the DMZ subsided for the moment after heavy action in the past few days.

Elect Cunningham To CMSC Board

WARRENSBURG — J. M. Cunningham, 1605 West 16th, Sedalia, was elected to the Board of Regents of Central Missouri State College at its biennial reorganization meeting recently.

Elected president of the board was Joe Herndon, superintendent of schools at Raytown, who had been a member of the Board of Regents since 1961 and had served as vice-president since 1965.

Ignore Geneva Ruling

SAIGON (AP) — Fighting still swirls around the demilitarized zone dividing North and South Vietnam nearly 17 years after the Geneva agreements theoretically ended the first Indochina war.

Ever since the big buildup of U.S. forces in 1965, the DMZ has become a military staging base for the North Vietnamese, a free-fire zone for American and South Vietnamese forces. The International Control Commission has been powerless to police it.

The intent of the DMZ as outlined at Geneva in 1954 has been ignored by all sides in the Indochina conflict.

"A provisional military demarcation line shall be fixed, on either side of which the forces of the two parties shall be regrouped after their withdrawal, the forces of the People's Army of Vietnam to the north of the line and the forces of the French Union to the south."

Verdict Of Not Guilty For Curry

WARSAW — After deliberating 45 minutes Thursday afternoon, an all-male jury here turned in a verdict of not guilty in the rape case against Larry Curry, 20, 617 Wilkerson, Sedalia.

Following closing arguments by both Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Adam Fischer and defense attorney James Herd of Kansas City, which lasted from 10 a.m. until noon, the jury returned at 12:45 with the verdict.

Ten witnesses were called to testify Wednesday, the first day of the trial, with the last testimony ending about 11 p.m. The trial was held in Benton County on a change of venue from Pettis County.

Curry is still charged with two counts of first degree robbery. He allegedly broke into the Robert Bohm residence, Route 3, last April and took a shotgun and rifle and then stole another shotgun and rifle from the Cebe Brownfield farm, about a mile north of the Bohm residence.

Curry has been held in the Benton County jail since last year.

Ham Radio Operations Explained

The Rev. Gregory Hibbard, a Kiwanian, presented a program on the world of the ham radio operator at the Thursday noon meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Bothwell Hotel.

Mr. Hibbard, himself a ham operator with an "advanced" class license, demonstrated some of his equipment and showed a color film, "Ham's Wide World," narrated by Arthur Godfrey.

The value of amateur radio, both as a hobby and social service, was explained by the film. Mr. Hibbard also played a tape of a radio conversation he had that morning with a ham operator in Brisbane, Australia.

The speaker was introduced by Herb Taylor in the absence of President Monty McQuitty and president-elect Jim Woods, who are attending the 56th annual convention of Kiwanis International in San Francisco, Calif., with their wives.

Birthday greetings were extended to Sylvan Woolery.

Singing was led by Wendell Smith, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Woolery.

Mount Honor Guard

MOSCOW (AP) — Tens of thousands of Russians, many of them daubing eyes with handkerchiefs, filed solemnly past the flower-heaped biers of three fallen cosmonauts Thursday. High Soviet officials mounted an honor guard.

The cosmonauts—Georgy Dobrovolsky, Vladislav Volkov and Viktor Patsayev—died mysteriously at the controls of their Soyuz 11 spaceship early Wednesday as they plummeted back to earth after a triumphal 23-day space mission.

Their bodies lay in state for eight hours in a hall of the Central Army House in a tree-shaded section of downtown Moscow.

Fellow cosmonauts in dark suits and airmen in light blue uniforms formed a guard of honor around the coffins. The country's top three leaders—Leonid I. Brezhnev, Alexei N. Kosygin and Nikolai V. Podgorny—took their turns in the guard Thursday morning.

Woman cosmonaut Valentina Tereshkova-Nikolaeva, who flew in space in 1963, and the widow of Yuri Gagarin, the world's first cosmonaut, comforted the wives and relatives of the dead cosmonauts.

Reluctant Van Dyke Returns To TV

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — They're all coming back to TV, the ones who left it to become big movie stars and never really made it.

Maybe their timing was bad — it's hard to become a big movie star when the movie business is collapsing — or maybe they never would have made it anyhow. Whatever it is, here they come — James Garner and David Janssen and Dick Van Dyke and many more.

You can't really blame them and you can't blame TV for wanting them back. They have great track records on the home screen, and maybe they can do it again.

If any one of them has a leadpipe cinch, it's probably Van Dyke. Nothing is sure in TV, but Dick has something going for him, a secret weapon. His name is Carl Reiner.

Reiner is one of those guys who can do anything — he's written books and plays and comedy records, directed movies and TV, produced movies and TV, acted in movies and TV. The only thing he hasn't done is play shortstop for the Dodgers, and the only reason he didn't do that is he never could go to his right.

It was Reiner who created, wrote and directed most of the first Dick Van Dyke Show. That one could have gone on forever, only Dick wanted to quit. He wanted to be a big movie star for awhile, and then retire to his Arizona ranch.

Well, he made some movies but — except for "Mary Poppins" — they didn't do as well as people expected. He wasn't the automatic box office name in movie theaters that he — and others — believed he would be.

But he did go live in Arizona. And the networks kept trying to lure him back to TV. He said no. He doesn't like Los Angeles living. He had enough to live on, he made an occasional film, he was content. He said he was going to retire in '72.

"He'll never retire," Reiner says. "He has to work."

One day, Van Dyke drove through a town called Carefree, outside Phoenix, and saw a beautiful new movie studio. It was put up by John Wayne's old stunt-man, Fred Graham, and it has only been used once, for a Bill Cosby movie.

"If I could do a series here," Van Dyke said, "I'd do it."

He called Reiner and Reiner said, sure, why not? Van Dyke asked him if he had an idea for a series and Reiner said yes, although he didn't, but he had plenty of time and great confidence in his brain cells.

There was really no problem in creating a character for Dick to play — he'll be a TV talk show host who lives in Phoenix — and no problem selling the show. CBS bought it, ordered 24 even before they sold it to a sponsor. By the time the show premieres, next September, all 24 will have been shot.

One big problem was getting a wife to play opposite Dick. Reiner wanted someone who would not remind the public of Mary Tyler Moore, his old TV wife. He picked Hope Lange, blond where Mary is brunette, a straight actress where Mary is kooky, an entirely different type.

Another problem. Carl named the wife Amy — it's short and easy to type — but Hope didn't like the name Amy. She wanted to be Jenny.

For Reiner, the return to TV is not a step back down from movies. He's still going to do films — his "Where's Poppa?"

is doing well in the cities, though not so hot in the rural sections — and says, as far as he knows, there is no movie slump.

A New Comic Outlook

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — There's that old cliché that every comic wants to play "Hamlet." Meet a couple who just want to be comics.

One is the veteran, Frank Gorshin, whose only gripe is that he's so well-known for his impressions that he never gets a chance — particularly on television — to do his real act.

"The TV audience," Gorshin says, "has never seen the real Frank Gorshin at work. I can't do my act in six minutes, which is what they usually give you on a variety show. In a club, when I have an hour or so, I can really develop something, do more than just my impressions. But TV only wants me to do those."

The other is Rip Taylor, who isn't as well-known as Gorshin, but packs them in in Las Vegas. And that's his gripe — he can't get out of Vegas.

"I'm living there now," Taylor says, "because I'm playing a year at the Aladdin. And I don't particularly like living in Las Vegas — there's nothing to do if you don't gamble. But it has one advantage — I get a check every week, and it doesn't bounce."

Rip Taylor

Gorshin has some other gripes — he has no patience with performers who don't like performing, and he also grumbles about the fact that TV gives the edge to singers over comics.

"I love performing," Gorshin says. "When I work before a live audience, it's so exciting I almost get high. When it's over, it's a terrible letdown. I can't understand those people who say — I heard Jimmy Coco say this on Johnny Carson's show — that they hate working clubs. If I had to sacrifice everything else I hold dear, I would just continue working clubs."

And then he changes his mind.

"But I'd give it all up — even that — for my own TV show. It's funny, you know, but the TV powers are very strange. If a singer does a three-minute song on a variety show, right away they say he should have his own variety show. Maybe he never said a word, but they want him to be MC of his own show. But, somehow, they see an impressionist and they never think he could front a variety show."

"They seem to think an impressionist is like a dog act."

Rip Taylor would like to do other things, too, like some comedy acting. He had one brief crack at it, a running part on Phyllis Diller's show but that fell on its Diller, and Taylor says, "It wasn't my fault the show went off."

He was an only child and he says that's great training for comedy — "you have nothing to do all day except make faces at yourself in the mirror." Then, for awhile, he was a page in the U.S. Senate and he says that was pretty funny, too.

Taylor thinks that Spiro Agnew has been the biggest boost to comedy of anybody who's come along in years. He says if the audience is cool, all you have to do is say the Vice President's name and you get your laughs.

"There are some automatic Agnew jokes," Taylor says. "I've had good luck with this one — 'Did you hear that fire destroyed Spiro Agnew's books? Yes, it burned up both of them. And he hadn't finished coloring one of them.'"

Gorshin hasn't added Agnew to his repertoire of impressions yet. He says finding new subjects isn't as easy as it used to be. He's recently added Peter Falk and George C. Scott, but they're not like the old standbys.

"It used to be easy," he says, "because there were individuals. All you had to say was 'You dirty rat,' and everybody knew you were doing Cagney. Anybody can do Cagney, with those three words. There's nobody like that around today."
